

PERJURY CHARGE AGAINST WEEKIE IS STRICKEN FROM U. S. COURT DOCKET

Judge Faris in Complying With District Attorney's Request Says He Is Opposed to Having Cases in His Court Tried at Washington.

CASE HAD BEEN PENDING FOR YEAR

Indictment Grew Out of Testimony Given by Republican Politician at Hearing of His Application for Citizenship.

The United States District Court today dismissed the perjury charge against Henry L. (Hank) Weekie of 2334 Hobart street, German alien, who was Commissioner of Weights and Measures in the Kiel administration when citizenship was denied to him by Judge Dyer, Dec. 17, 1912.

The charge of perjury grew out of Weekie's testimony at the naturalization hearing.

The dismissal was asked for by District Attorney Carroll, who told the court that the Attorney General had authorized the dropping of the case as a result of correspondence with Washington conducted by former District Attorney Hensley, Carroll's predecessor.

Judge Faris, in approving the dismissal, said: "I am not in sympathy with the policy established 15 years ago by the then Attorney-General Wickham of trying cases at Washington. I suppose I will have to accept this policy and dismiss the case at the District Attorney's request."

Hensley, who resigned as United States District Attorney on May 19, effective June 1, obtained on the criminal charge against Weekie. In a letter to the Attorney-General Mr. Hensley stated his doubt that the Government could successfully prosecute the case due to the absence of material witnesses.

Attorneys Had Been Notified.
Carroll said that, inasmuch as his predecessor and his assistant had concluded to ask for the dismissal of the Weekie case after investigation, he saw no reason for him to throw over the material again. Besides, he said, the attorneys for Weekie have been notified that the charge would be dismissed.

Chief Naturalization Examiner Bevington, who brought about the charge against Weekie, said today that the prosecution of a criminal charge was without his jurisdiction and that he would not discuss the outcome of the case.

The perjury charge against Weekie was made in an indictment returned last June. The first count charged Weekie with having testified that he had never been arrested, while, according to the indictment, he was arrested July 5, 1898, on a grand larceny charge, and Jan. 15, 1901, on a charge of attempting to bribe a State witness.

FIVE CABINET MEMBERS TO BE IN SAN FRANCISCO FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Secretary of State Colby Has Conference With President Before Departure as District of Columbia Delegate.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 21.—Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, had a brief conference with President Wilson today before departing for San Francisco to attend the Democratic national convention as a delegate from the District of Columbia.

Colby will be one of the President's spokesmen at the convention and was the last of the cabinet officers who are to attend the party gathering to confer with Mr. Wilson. Four other cabinet officers will be present at San Francisco. They are Postmaster-General Harrison, who goes as a delegate from Texas; Secretary Daniels, Attorney-General Palmer and Secretary Meredith.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 21.—Bearing President Wilson's draft of the League of Nations and other planks for the Democratic platform, United States Senator Carter Glass of Virginia passed through Chicago last night on his way to the Democratic national convention at San Francisco.

Glass conferred with President Wilson for 40 minutes just before his departure from Washington. It was the charge of perjury grew out of Weekie's testimony at the naturalization hearing.

The President's platform is said to present the peace treaty as the paramount issue and contains a League of Nations plank denouncing "reservations which would impair the essential integrity" of the covenant.

By the Associated Press.

"We don't know what we are going to do at the convention," Gov. Smith said. "The New York delegation probably will have some definite plans to present but we have not decided on them yet."

President to Keep in Touch With Convention by Long Distance Phone

WASHINGTON, June 21.—PRESIDENT WILSON plans to keep in direct touch with the leaders at the convention by means of the long distance telephone.

Secretary Tumulty, acting for the President, talked with Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National Committee on the telephone for some time today.

SCHMOLL ADVERTISING IN MUNICIPAL BUSESSES

Director of Welfare Says He Did Not Know Cards Were Displayed in Park.

Cards bearing the picture of John Schmoll, Director of Public Welfare and chairman of the Republican City Committee, and advertising Schmoll's candidacy for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, have been displayed, for the past few days, in the three municipal motorbuses in Forest Park. These busses, which carry passengers on a circuit of the park, and which, in the evening, take many persons to and from the Municipal Theater, are not supposed to contain advertising matter of any character.

The placard space is occupied by announcements of park and recreation activities.

The Schmoll cards bear the words: "John Schmoll for Sheriff; The People's Choice; a Man With a Clean Record. Vote for Him." No cards of Schmoll's opponent, Charles E. Mohrstadt, or of any other candidate for any office, have been noticed in the busses.

Schmoll, as head of the Department of Public Welfare, is the official superior of the Park Commissioner and the Park Department employees.

Park Commissioner Pape, when his attention was called to the matter today by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said he had not known the cards were in the busses, and that he would order them removed.

Director of Public Welfare Schmoll also said he had not known the cards were in the busses. "Some over-zealous friend of mine must have put them there," he said. "I have made a couple of speeches to the Park Department employees and they seem to be for me."

Large cards bearing Schmoll's picture are displayed in the elevator and corridors of the Municipal Court Building. Other candidates' cards are also beginning to appear in the building.

MRS. STRAUS GIVES ALL HER JEWELS TO THE ZIONISTS

Husband Also Contributes $100,000

of Jerusalem University.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 21.—Mrs. Nathan Straus has donated all her jewels, valued at $18,000, to the Zionist organization of America, for the development of medical and health service in Palestine, the organization announced here yesterday.

At the same time her husband gave the Zionist organization $100,000 for a health and medical research department for the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Mr. and Mrs. Straus are now on their way to Palestine.

TWO SUE PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR TO RECOVER FEES

Court Asked to Set Aside Final Settlement of Estate of Mrs. Nellie Richard,
Who Died in 1918.

ALLEGED COMMISSION 'CHARGE IS TOO HIGH'

Plaintiffs Assert $400 Charge for Attorney's Fee Is Not Supported by Voucher and No Lawyer Was Employed

Suit was filed today against Public Administrator James P. Newell by Theresa Girault and Margaret J. Beach, to set aside the administrator's final settlement of the estate of their sister, Mrs. Nellie Richard, who died in October, 1918.

The two women allege, in their petition, that in his final settlement of the estate, which had a value of $559.25, Newell made a charge of $297.84, representing five per cent of the disbursements made by him, and therefore that his charge for commission involved an overcharge of $202.16.

The women also state their belief that no attorney was ever employed to assist the administrator or render legal services in the case, except that their own attorneys aided in the adjustment of one claim, for which they made a payment to the administrator. They state that the administrator filed no voucher showing payment to any attorney for legal services, and that, in their belief, no lawyer was employed by the administrator, and no claim made against him, for any legal services rendered.

Not Notified of Settlement.
It is stated, in the petition, that Public Administrator Newell petitioned and agreed with the women's lawyers that he would notify them personally of the filing, in the Probate Court, of his final settlement of the estate.

They declare they never received notice of the filing of the final settlement, and that they did not see the legal notice which Newell published in the St. Louis Times, from Jan. 29 to Feb. 28, inclusive, 1919. Notice of the filing of the final settlement was filed March 3, 1919, and the final settlement was filed Oct. 10.

In this manner, it is stated, the women, through their attorneys, were "lulled into the belief" that they would receive notice from the administrator's office, and accordingly they let the time pass in which they should have filed their legal exceptions to Newell's charges in the Probate Court. By the time they learned what had been done, it was too late even to take an appeal from the settlement. Accordingly, the only remedy left is a proceeding in equity in the Circuit Court, such as the Probate Court, which has been instituted. R. M. Nichols and Assistant Circuit Attorney Edward A. Feehan appear as counsel in the present proceeding.

Newell on Vacation.
At Newell's office, where a Post-Dispatch reporter called there for a statement, it was said that Newell had departed last night for Los Angeles on three weeks' vacation.

Sewall Smith, cashier of the office, declared the charge against Newell was a proper one. He said the other fee, $400, went to Eugene Angert, attorney for the Public Administrator, and was a proper one and was earned. "Neither fee was excessive," he said. "In fact, both were very reasonable."

When told that the petition alleged that no bill or voucher for the attorney's fees was in the files of the Probate Court, Smith stated that one could be furnished if the plaintiffs insisted on having it.

Statement by Holtcamp.
Probate Judge Holtcamp, when asked for the procedure followed, by the Probate Court in the employment of counsel and filing of vouchers, said: "The law authorizes the public administrator to employ counsel to assist in the administration of estates whenever the public administrator deems it necessary. In regard to the filing of vouchers, it is a rule of the Probate Court, which has been in effect for many years, that a voucher should be filed showing whatever was paid out by the Public Administrator for anything or everything."

Judge Holtcamp said the only case where a voucher could be dispensed with is in submitting the Public Administrator's claim for his commission. He said an attorney's fee should be represented by a voucher. Smith said the Richard estate was Continued on Page 5, Column 5.

RENT STATUTE IN OLDEST KNOWN CODE OF LAWS JUST FOUND

Clay Tablets From Nippur Also Show Slavery Vexatious Question in 3000 B. C.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—What is said to be the oldest known written code of laws in the world, probably antedating that of Hammurabi by at least a thousand years, has been discovered in part among the hitherto untranslated clay tablets from Nippur at the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The Hammurabi code was prepared about 2100 B. C., and was discovered about 20 years ago on a large diorite stone by French explorers.

The laws, which have just been translated by Abbe Scheil of Paris, deal with responsibilities of hired servants, with trespass on farms and orchards, harboring of slaves, rentals, rights of slave women who have borne children to their masters, punishment for adultery, etc. One interesting statute provides that rentals must run for three years in case a man has taken over a house the owner does not know how to manage.

In case a slave bore children to her master, she and the offspring were free, and if the master married the slave the children became legitimate. In general, the laws show a high state of civilization existed when they were written, and indicate millions of years of previous experience in settled communities. They deal with personal and property rights on a basis somewhat like that of the Deuteronomic code. It is thought possible the tablets were text books used at the great University of Nippur.

The discoveries are considered of the highest importance, and search will be made for further tablets containing additional laws.

FRANCE HOPES TO PAY BRITISH DEBT WITH GERMAN INDEMNITY

Millard Believes Similar Arrangement Can Be Made to Pay 12-000,000,000 Francs to U. S.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 21.—Premier Millerand hopes at the Hythe conference, according to Marcel Hutin, in the Echo de Paris, to induce Premier Lloyd George to accept the payment of France's 12,000,000,000 francs gold debt to England when Germany pays France in reparations.

Hutin adds M. Hutin, that if England accepts such an arrangement for her debt, the United States will accept from France, for France's debt of 12,000,000,000 francs maturing in 1925, the same method of payment to be made as France collects from Germany.

RIVER IN QUEER PERFORMANCE NEAR SHORE AT HICKMAN, KY.

Water Becomes Turbulent, Runs T-stream and Tears Loose Small Craft in Brief Disturbance.
Special to Post-Dispatch.
HICKMAN, Ky., June 21.—A strange performance of the Mississippi River was observed here yesterday afternoon. The water near the shore became turbulent, began to whirl and then ran upstream for a short distance.

Then the water ran about 10 feet high, sank a fish dock, nearly overturned a barge and filled it half full of water, tore loose other small craft and broke heavy lines that held boats into shore. This disturbance lasted about three minutes.

There was no wind or any visible cause and the rest of the river was calm and natural.

ALLIED LEADERS CONFER AT BOULOGNE

Venizelos Will Offer to Take Armenian Mandate—Differences Still Exist Over Reparations.

By the Associated Press.
BOULOGNE, June 21.—Greece was given a free hand in the military measures in Turkey which were decided upon at the Hythe conference yesterday, according to information received here today. The Premiers and their advisers found these measures were required immediately because of the grave situation resulting from Mustafa Kemal's Nationalist forces reaching the Dardanelles.

French and British troops and the British fleet will be concentrated for the defense of Constantinople and the straits.

The delegates to the Hythe conference, it is declared, were of the opinion that the taking of these measures would be sufficient to deal with the situation.

Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand, accompanied by Marshal Foch and Frederic Francois-Marsal, French Minister of Finance, arrived here this morning by special boat from Folkestone. In the party was Premier Venizelos of Greece. The arrival of the two Premiers completes the delegations which will participate in the conversations here today and tomorrow. The Italian and Belgian representatives arrived during the night.

Immediately after their arrival the delegates were driven to a hotel, where a brief preliminary conference was held before luncheon.

M. Venizelos will participate in the sessions of the conference, at which questions of Turkey and Armenia are discussed.

Questions relative to reparations and Russia are expected to be the two most difficult problems of the conference, and may prolong the sessions to Wednesday or Thursday.

British delegates still maintain a strong attitude regarding the manner in which the allies should deal with Germany on reparations.

The only clause involved in execution of the Treaty of Versailles on which the allies agree is that relative to the disarmament of Germany.

Premier Venizelos will formally offer, in the name of Greece, to take the mandate for Armenia, and he will participate largely in all other discussions of Turkish questions.

Count Carlo Sforza, Italian Foreign Minister, will ask on behalf of Italy for 20 per cent of the reparations to be paid by Germany.

At the luncheon served immediately after the arrival of Lloyd George and Millerand the program for this afternoon was decided upon. It is understood it was agreed that the first subject to be discussed would be reparations, on which the two Premiers, according to best information, failed to agree at the Hythe conference Saturday.

Both the French Premier and M. Francois-Marsal, however, expressed upon their arrival perfect satisfaction with the results of the Hythe conference. They said a complete accord between France and Great Britain has been reached at Hythe as to reparations and disarmament. They added that France has every reason to be satisfied.

20 PER CENT INCREASE IN PULLMAN RATES

Public Service Commission Grants Minimum of $2 for Berth Infrastate.

Increase in Pullman car rates on four lines for Missouri, effective July 1, were announced today at Jefferson City by the Public Service Commission, which established a minimum rate for a berth at $2 anywhere in the State and make the minimum fare for seats 50 cents instead of the 25-cent rate heretofore prevailing.

The increase, quoted, on rates for a whole, is 20 per cent.

Lines affected by the order are the C. & O., the St. Louis Southern, the St. Louis-San Francisco, and the Washburn.

Heretofore, the lowest rate for berths in Missouri has been 75 cents for short runs. Under the new ruling, even a run from St. Louis to Jefferson City, will necessitate a $2 fee for a berth. The lowest fee for a seat in a Pullman has been 25 cents, similar to that from St. Louis to Pacific. This has been 25 cents, but from now on will be 50 cents.

The 20 per cent increase will affect the longer runs. The minimum rate established at the request of the Pullman company, which recently filed a schedule showing the expenses of maintaining the equipment and loss sustained at the fees prevailing for the shorter hauls.

CEMENT LAWNS ARE URGED TO KEEP THE "DEW ON THE ROSE"

California Woman Believes They Would Reduce Unhappiness in Married Life.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 21.—A lawn that is not a lawn, but looks like a lawn and is said by its owner to be better than a lawn—a waterless, mowless, weedless, gopherless lawn—in short, a cement "lawn," painted grass-green, has appeared in front of a Los Angeles bungalow.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward, inventor and owner, says it saves time, money and worry. She never has to water it or cut it. It is always dry enough to sit on—and it needs painting only once a year.

She has circular holes cut through the lawn and in them and along the edges she has flowers planted.

"I invented the cement lawn," she said, "because of trouble I had in getting a man to take care of my old grass lawn. It cost only $65.

You don't know what a blessing it is," she continued. "Do you know I believe there would be much less unhappiness in married life if the husband would use a cement instead of grass lawn, and so avoid having to come home after work and run an old lawn mower over the front yard."

FAMILY FOOD BUDGET REACHED NEW HIGH RECORD IN MAY

Cost of 22 Articles Increased 3 Per Cent Over April and 7 Per Cent Over January.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 21.—The food budget of the average American family attained a new high record in May, the Department of Labor announced today, the cost of 22 articles of food used in making up the "retail food index" having increased 3 per cent over the total cost in April and 7 per cent as compared with January. Recent increases in the cost of sugar, flour and potatoes largely accounts for the group increases, the monthly review says.

In connection with the April figures, today's review shows sugar has advanced 26 per cent, cornmeal 14 per cent, flour 7 per cent, and potatoes 5 per cent.

Unionist and Nationalist Par- tisan Warfare Results in Number of Deaths and Wounding of 100.

FIRING OF RIFLES ALMOST CONTINUOUS

Business at Standstill When Fighting Is Resumed After Troops Had Once Separated Combatants.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 21.—Civil War conditions prevail in Londonderry and the authorities are powerless, it is declared, in an exchange telegraph dispatch from Londonderry this afternoon. Several additional persons were killed in this morning's rioting there, according to this message.

By the Associated Press.
LONDONDERRY, June 21.—Rioting was renewed in this city this morning and resulted in one person being mortally wounded and two seriously hurt. Rifle and revolver firing was almost continuous, and, as the people feared to venture out to work, business was at a virtual standstill.

The mob this morning openly fired on the troops. At one o'clock this afternoon the rioting was still in progress. One of the men wounded in yesterday's fighting between Unionists and Nationalists died today, bringing the number of deaths for the present outbreak to six.

When three Unionists were shot, one of whom was thrown into the river, early this morning, a large body of Unionists charged, firing toward the Sinn Féin stronghold in Bridge street. The Sinn Féiners returned the fire. Troops with an armored car broke up the fighting temporarily at 10 o'clock this morning. When the troops appeared at one place, however, fighting broke out at another. More troops are being sent.

Shops and schools were closed today and many houses were barricaded because of the rioting. Dock workers struck. The rioting, starting at 2 o'clock this morning after the troops had been withdrawn following yesterday's battles, continued all day. Five persons were killed, 10 others seriously wounded, several of them probably fatally, and about 100 others were less seriously injured, during a period of rioting here Saturday night. The fighting was accompanied by fires in several houses, and in what at first appeared to be incendiary, one of which resulted in the burning of a large store.

The rioting was a continuation of the disorders of Friday night, when Nationalists and Unionists engaged in clashes for several hours at the military had to be called out. The military remained in what were considered the danger zones, but, notwithstanding its presence, the disorderly elements held sway for some time.

An unrecorded number of persons who were suffering from minor wounds went home without receiving treatment. Among the wounded are several shipyard workers with bad gunshot wounds.

The authorities had taken elaborate precautions, in view of the expected renewal of the disorders. The military, fully equipped, took positions at the head and foot of Bridge street, which is the Nationalist quarter, and on Fountain street the Unionist quarter, an armored car was drawn up at Carlisle road, between these localities to keep the rival factions apart.

These latest scenes of rioting, which left the city absolutely terror-stricken, were said to have originated in what at first appeared to be a minor squabble between Unionists and Nationalists at the junction of Longwater street, in the Nationalist quarter, and Upper Fountain street, the Unionist district, these two streets being separated only by Bishop street, the scene of bloodshed for many years during periods of rioting. Men armed with rifles and revolvers came into conflict before the military could intervene.

Party Cries Raised.
A shot fired from one party into a crowd of rival partisans developed with ominous speed into violent rioting. Party cries were raised, and the Unionists, assembled at the head of Upper Fountain street, poured volley after volley of rifle and revolver fire into Longwater street, with disastrous results.

Another crowd of Unionists in Albert street maintained a crossfire in the direction of Bishop's Gate, with the result that the people in

ELWELL WAS IN HOME AT 2:30 A. M., OFFICIALS LEARN

Police Believe Man Who Drove Up in Roadster and Entered House at 3:45 May Have Been Slayer.

CHAUFFEUR'S STORY "MOST IMPORTANT"

Rhodes Insists He Didn't Go to Home Before Noon, but Reporters Say They Talked to Him There at 9:45.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 21.—The District Attorney's office has established at least one fact in connection with the slaying of Joseph B. Elwell. The gambler was in his home, 244 West Seventy-third street, at 2:30 a. m., the day on which he was slain. This information was given to newspaper men yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who said:

"We have learned within the last 24 hours that Elwell was in his home six hours before he was shot. The information has come through a citizen whose name I am not at liberty to divulge. What I will say is that it is accurate. The source of our information is reliable."

"This, of course, is a very important fact to have learned. It places tremendous importance on the testimony of John Isdale of 236 West Seventy-third street, who told the assistant District Attorney Joyce that on the morning of the murder he saw a man enter the Elwell home at 3:45 o'clock."

"I want to say that whoever it was who drove that man to the Elwell house that morning was making an important contribution to justice by coming forward and making his identity known."

"The testimony of Isdale was that on the morning of the murder he had been unable to sleep and was sitting by a front window. The morning was close and the window was open. He was attracted, he said, by the noise of a roadster of expensive type that turned west on Seventy-third street and roared down the silent block with the cutout open."

"Saw Man Enter Elwell Home."
The roadster made such a din in the silent street, Isdale added, he looked out of the window, saw the car stop at Elwell's house, observed that two men were in the car and saw one get out, bid his companion goodbye and enter the Elwell house. Isdale looked at his watch and noted the hour was 3:45. Four days after the murder he told his story to Joyce."

"Evidently, Isdale was not closely questioned at that time, because Assistant District Attorney Dooling asked newspaper men yesterday afternoon to supply him with the actual time Isdale is said to have seen the morning visitor to the Elwell house."

"Dooling, accompanied by newspaper men, went to Isdale's house yesterday and was informed by Isdale's uncle, John Isdale, that his nephew had related some story to him after the murder. His nephew is a Philadelphia, Isdale said. Dooling told newspaper reporters he intends to call Isdale on the telephone this morning and get from him his complete story."

"Reviewing the circumstances connected with the murder, Dooling asked reporters if they knew exactly what time the letter carrier arrived at the Elwell house the morning of the shooting. The general opinion was that he had delivered the Elwell mail at 7:35. Dooling says he has learned the mail man called at the house earlier than that."

"From what I have learned from Joyce," said Dooling, "the milk man who left a bottle of milk in the vestibule of the Elwell home arrived there at 6:30 o'clock. Let when Mrs. Larsen, Elwell's housekeeper, entered the house some time between 8:00 and 8:30 and found her husband wounded, she rushed out and hailed this milk man, whose wagon was directly across the street from the Elwell house."

"Have any of you men questioned the milk man?"

"One of the reporters suggested that it might be a bad idea for Dooling himself to send for the milk man and clear up that point to the satisfaction of all concerned. Mrs. Larsen has told the authorities that when she reached the house that the milkman was outside or was locked and locked. Entering the vestibule, she says, she found the milk man had been there and delivered the milk."

"Dr. Charles E. Norris, medical examiner, has expressed the belief that the murder was committed probably 15 minutes before the housekeeper arrived. Just as a matter of record, newspaper men suggested to the Assistant District Attorney it might be wise to establish definitely whether the milkman closed the outside door, which locks automatically. If he did not close the door which Mrs. Larsen found shut, then either the murderer closed the door or Elwell himself did so when he slipped into the vestibule to get the mail he was reading when he was shot."

"Dooling also questioned reporters with reference to the story told by the chauffeur to newspaper men the morning of the crime. According to the District Attorney's records, Rhodes, the chauffeur, reached the Elwell house about noon, going directly from the garage, where he had been repairing one of Elwell's cars."

"These reporters talked to Rhodes, the chauffeur, at 9:45 that morning in front of the house. That story twice has been told to Joyce. Dooling heard it yesterday, apparently for the first time. He said it was 'most important' and carefully made a note of it."

"Dooling was questioned as to the number of keys to the Elwell home. Barnes, who was employed by Elwell as chauffeur while Rhodes was in the army, told reporters that from seven to 12 women had keys to the Elwell house."

"Mrs. Larsen informed the authorities that the lock on the outer door had been changed, but, according to her own admission, the outer door always was left open."

"Employees Deny Having Keys. Dooling then went to the Elwell house, where he had been questioning Elwell's employees, Mrs. Larsen, Barnes and Rhodes had keys to the house, although the chauffeur and the valet both denied having any."

told by the chauffeur to newspaper men the morning of the crime. According to the District Attorney's records, Rhodes, the chauffeur, reached the Elwell house about noon, going directly from the garage, where he had been repairing one of Elwell's cars."

"Employees Deny Having Keys. Dooling then went to the Elwell house, where he had been questioning Elwell's employees, Mrs. Larsen, Barnes and Rhodes had keys to the house, although the chauffeur and the valet both denied having any."

"Barnes, the valet, tells us he never had a set of keys," said Dooling. "That struck us as somewhat peculiar. If Barnes were on as intimate terms with Elwell as we have been led to suppose, he certainly should have had a set of keys to the Elwell house. When Barnes was questioned by us on Saturday he said the last time he had been in the house was in February. We directed his attention to the fact that in February Elwell was in the South, and that if he were in the house at that time it must mean that he had keys. Barnes thought a moment and then he said he had been in the house later. After questioning Barnes I have come to the conclusion that for a man who has lived as long a time as he has among clubs he is a very simple man."

"Dooling was asked if Bender, the chauffeur who said he carried only three members of the Lewisohn theater party to their homes on the morning of the murder, had been further questioned or had been confronted with Mr. and Mrs. Lewisohn, Miss Viola Kraus and Figueroa."

"The chauffeur told Joyce he had picked up the party outside the New Amsterdam Theater on the morning of the murder and that he had taken two men and a woman uptown. The man and the woman, he said, left the taxicab at a house in the East Sixties and that the other member of the party had been driven by him to the Ritz-Carlton. This left one woman member of the theater party unaccounted for. Bender was examined and cross-examined and still stuck to his story. He was so sure of his story that he offered to bet his taxicab on the truth of it."

"When Dooling answered about Bender, he said: 'It seems now that the chauffeur is not so sure whether he really did carry three or four persons in his taxi that night.'"

"Row Over Woman in Palm Beach. Dooling's attention was called to a newspaper story said to have been told to the authorities by Rhodes to the effect that Elwell, during his last stay in Palm Beach, had angered a man by his attentions to the man's wife. According to this story Rhodes described a scene in a garage in Palm Beach the day before Elwell left there. Elwell, he said, told the woman he could associate with her no longer because her husband had suspected him and made threats against him. The woman, he said, charged Elwell with making an excuse for a break with her, and became hysterical in her reproaches in the presence of garage employees."

FANTASTIC PARADE OF "ABYSSINIANS" CAUSES 2 DEATHS

Rioting Follows Burning of Flag by Chicago Negroes Advocating Return to Africa.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The police today arrested R. D. Jones, supposed white leader of the "Abyssinians," and alleged radical agitator, in connection with rioting in Chicago's negro section last night, during which two white men were killed and two negroes seriously injured. Jones denied responsibility for last night's affair and said he had been ejected from a meeting of the "Abyssinians" the preceding Sunday.

The fighting followed dispersal of a parade of negro members of the "Star Order of Ethiopia," an organization said to advocate return of the negro to Abyssinia, and immediately after one of the leaders of the parade had set fire to an American flag.

"The Great Abyssinians." Among the negroes who took part in the plot to burn the flag are Joseph Fernon, who is said to call himself "the Great Abyssinian," and his son, Grover C. Redding, who, it is said, claims to be a native of Abyssinia, and several other negroes arrested this morning. Fernon, his son and Redding led the parade yesterday, mounted on horses, and wearing fantastic raiment.

Jones, who, the police declare, was back of the movement for the return of the negroes to Abyssinia, yesterday was the principal speaker at a meeting which had for its object the launching of a boom for Mayor William Hale Thompson as a third party candidate for President who would rally the "solid Irish and negro vote."

The killing of the white men, who included Robert L. Rose, a sailor stationed at Great Lakes, aroused hundreds of sailors on leave in Chicago and led to the burning of a dispatch to Great Lakes of all sailors found on the streets.

The other white man killed was Joseph Hoyt, 59 years old, a clerk in a cigar store near the scene of the shooting.

The Rev. G. W. Baber, pastor of a negro church where a meeting of the Abyssinians was held yesterday, declared last night that he had heard remarks against the Government instead of a lecture on Abyssinia, for which purpose the church was loaned.

Jones' Wild Story. Jones, who was still at liberty this morning after an all-night hunt by the police, was found by a reporter, and told his version of the rioting.

He said he met Redding, who poses as an Abyssinian in New York, several weeks ago and had later introduced the Abyssinians to President Wilson at Washington. Redding, Jones said, told him he has recently been in Abyssinia, and when asked how he got there explained that he "took an airship from Mexico."

Jones said he accompanied the negroes to Chicago two weeks ago to ask the Republican convention to incorporate a plank in the party platform providing for the resumption of the Abyssinian treaty with the United States, which expired in 1917. Since coming here, he declared, he had denounced Redding and the Federal authorities as radicals, but without result.

The propaganda circulated among Chicago negroes by the "Princes," Jones said, was signed by "George Gabriel, Abyssinian linguist," and Redding. It gave the offices of the organization as 1327 Madison street, Washington, D. C., in care of Mrs. Dabney, and 115 West 138th street, New York City, in care of Charles Manson. Redding, Jones said, worked through the Universal Negro College, a branch of the International Brotherhood of the Black Star Line Steamship Co., a negro organization which owns one steamer.

Police raided a garage near the scene of the riot and captured one of the men who played a part in it. He was found, cases of the others being dismissed "for lack of evidence."

Seventeen men taken in a raid at 2603 Morgan street, and charged with playing pool, were dismissed in this manner.

John Clatto, 3550 Lindell boulevard, was fined $5 for shooting craps and $10 for resisting arrest. He was caught in a dice game with several others in the alley in the rear of 202 North Sixth street, the others getting away, and Clatto making considerable objection to being arrested.

Two others, Clyde Applebee of 188 Mississippi avenue and Ed Rice, arrested Saturday night charged with playing dice in the street near 1914 Chouteau avenue, were fined $5 each. Three, charged with playing 10-cent "pay ball" pool in a pool hall at 2603 Gravols avenue, were fined $5 each and the fines stayed on good behavior.

One pamphlet bearing the crossed flags of Abyssinia with the lion rampant, was inscribed: "The Lion of Judah." "Between the 'King of Ethiopia' and the 'United States.'"

"His Majesty Menelik II, King of Kings of Ethiopia, etc."

The Abyssinians explained at a meeting called yesterday to boom Mayor William Hale Thompson as the presidential candidate of a third party composed of Irish, negroes and trade unionists, that the treaty, which was negotiated under the administration of President Roosevelt, would, if restored, violate "Jim Crow" laws in the South, as negroes, claiming protection as Abyssinians, would demand the right to travel on the same basis as whites.

Reports that the Abyssinians were backed by the I. W. W. through a negro radical organization known as the Black Star, were denied at I. W. W. headquarters. Officials there declared there were no separate branches for negroes and that the I. W. W. operates under only one name.

WHO NOMINATED HARDING, TOPIC IN NORTHWEST

Strange Tales Are Told, as Usual, but Facts of Convention Show Number Were Concerned.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., June 21.—Poor Warren Harding? Aside from the usual campaign yarns to which a presidential nominee is compelled to listen, he must now submit to the rest of his life to inside stories galore of how he was nominated at Chicago.

Even to this distance strange tales have been wafted telling vividly the way the presidential nomination was bestowed on the Ohio Senator. Everybody is given credit for having had the lucky thought some time between midnight and the sunrise hours of June 12, which was the day the presidential nomination was bestowed on the Ohio Senator.

For seven years Woodrow Wilson has been told how he was nominated at the famous Baltimore convention in 1912. And it is recorded to this day in the unwritten archives of the Democratic party that Roger Sullivan turned the trick; that Bryan did it; that Col. Harvey did it; that William McCombs did it; that Mitchell Palmer did it. But the fact is no one man nominated Wilson and no one man nominated Harding.

No single boss nor leader controlled the Republican national convention at Chicago. A group of men influenced it. Somebody has to do that with an unwieldy body of delegates. But the convention was a contest between two sets of men—Lowden and Wood managers—who tried to manipulate the delegations and there brought on the deadlock which yielded Harding the nomination.

Harvey and Lamont. But to take up seriatim the men who are being credited with having won the nomination for Harding, Col. Harvey, editor extraordinary, is given generous praise for his part. It was the conference was held in his room, but in the same suite was Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., and it is a fact that neither Col. Harvey nor Mr. Lamont controlled any delegates at Chicago, but were merely interested onlookers. If, indeed, they were able now and then to make a suggestion to their numerous friends who did control delegates.

Mr. Lamont, by the way, is a personal friend of President Wilson, and came back on the steamer George Washington with him from the peace conference at Paris. Mr. Lamont served on the financial section of the American peace mission in Europe, and has been in China and Japan helping to rehabilitate the finances of the Far East, so his dropping in at the Chicago convention was merely incidental. And he probably had no desire to influence the delegates in any way, even when he did find commodious quarters with Col. Harvey at a sumptuous hotel.

Power of Big Delegations. Now, Col. Harvey has been a powerful influence in the Republican party since he was elected to the Senate in 1914. He is a little exaggerated. The Republican convention at Chicago was bossed or unbosomed, according as one regards the half dozen or more leaders who controlled the big delegations in any direction. He is Republican or Democratic. Such a group will always exist so long as Pennsylvania has 74 votes, New York 88, and so on. Numerically, the big delegations are leaders and their control nominates the situation becomes deadlock.

Credit for the nomination of Harding must repose on these men: Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and his representative at Chicago, John B. Kendrick of Connecticut; Charles B. Warren, national committee man from Michigan; Senator Wadsworth of New York; Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Tully of New York; Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and former Senator Murray Crane of the same State; and Tobias H. Hart of Kentucky.

There are others—some 700 delegates—who played a part after all, but not in the least important. It is a list composed of Senator Hiram Johnson and Senator William E. Borah who put the veto on Wood and Lowden by their fuss over campaign expenditures. Finally, too, Senator Polinder of Washington, Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania, Frank Willis and Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, and others—all of whom were persuaded to hold their delegations intact so that Leonard Wood would not get their votes in a pinch—to these men most credit be given for creating the situation that gave birth to the Harding candidacy.

Newspapers will contend that this convention was bossed and unbosomed. Leaders there were, and negotiations plenty. There always are in conventions. And such gathering without a steering committee would never name anybody. But the erroneous impressions about the Chicago convention will be exploded from now until election.

Hays as a Candidate. Former President Taft, who was at New Haven during the convention, is evidently the victim of the mysterious name that nobody has heard of, namely, that Will Hays was the dark horse candidate of the "bitter-enders," meaning presumably the Borah-Johnson group. This much is right—Will Hays was a dark horse candidate, but he was as much beloved in the Johnson camp as Herbert Hoover. Mr. Hays was modestly in the background—but there was a group some whisper that was led by Col. William Boyce Thompson of New York and Raymond Borah—who wanted Hays. The eminent national chairman pressed no visible part in these transactions, being present himself in the conference which brought Harding forward.

In the Far West they are still talking about the Chicago convention and the delegates who played a part in it. It is being whispered that the United States Senators did the nominating and the delegations followed them because said Senators are expected to be powerful in Washington if a Republican is elected.

This is usually a sufficient explanation and, after all, the dissent over the Harding nomination is rapidly disappearing. The main argument seems to be that Harding is a typically invulnerable, conscientious and willing to take advice—and what more could Republicans want? At this writing it looks as if the State of Washington were his.

$20,000 IN DRY LAW FINES. New York Judge Lets Off Easily Men Who Flew Gully.

NEW YORK, June 21.—A record in collecting fines for violations of the Volstead act was set here today when $20,000 was taken in from offenders and saloonkeepers in penalties of $15 to $250 each.

Last week Federal Judge Hand offered to let off with fines all first offenders who would plead guilty to violations of the law prior to June 8, when the Supreme Court declared the prohibition measure constitutional.

Special Grand Jury to Fix Blame for Bergdoll Escape.

Judge, in Charging Body, Declares Facts of Case Are "Notorious" and Blot Upon U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—A special grand jury met here today to determine who was responsible for the escape of Grover C. Bergdoll, wealthy convicted draft dodger.

Bergdoll was brought here under guard from Fort Jay, N. Y., some weeks ago, permission having been granted for him to go to Maryland to search for a large sum in gold he said he hid in the mountains while evading the authorities. Seizing his opportunity, he fled in an automobile and has not since been arrested, though officers all over the country are searching for him.

In charging the jury, Judge J. Whitaker Thompson said: "In taking up the question of whether a conspiracy existed to effect the escape of Bergdoll, you will consider the acts of all persons, no matter how high or low in authority or position, who, in your judgment, have done anything toward carrying out such a conspiracy."

"The facts in connection with the escape," the judge continued, "are notorious, a matter of public knowledge. The escape occurred and the facts in connection with it are such that there has been a scandal in the community and a blot upon the administration of the United States Government."

MEXICO MORE AT PEACE NOW THAN IN THE TIME OF DIAZ, SAYS HUERTA

Provisional President Asserts Airplanes Are Pursuing Villa Relentlessly, and Bandit Soon Will Be Eliminated.

Mexican Wireless Station to Give Out All News Received

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—Mexican petroleum laws based upon article 27 of the Constitution, nationalizing deposits of oil, will not be retroactive, Adolfo de la Huerta, provisional President, told foreign correspondents Saturday. Senor de la Huerta spoke freely in discussing problems before the country, being host at a luncheon given to the newspaper men. Article 27 will be interpreted liberally, he said.

The policy of friendship toward foreign nations, especially the United States, together with the assumption of all legally contracted debts of the Mexican Republic, is a part of the provisional President's program. During the two hours the President talked with the correspondents he answered a rapid fire of questions with amazing frankness. Once he had a sudden attack of illness and was forced to cease speaking for several moments. This attack, however, alarmed the guests, came when the provisional President was talking of the uprising against President Carranza and had said orders had been given Gen. Juan S. Torres, at Hermosillo, to arrest De La Huerta, but that when the General arrived in Sonora he refused to obey orders.

Didn't Discuss Revolt. The provisional President refused to leave the table because of his illness, and in a few minutes resumed his narration of events. He did not throw any new light upon events attending the Sonora revolt, which spread to all parts of the republic and finally resulted in the flight and death of Carranza.

Asked what he meant by "debt contracted," the President replied laughingly: "Please do not confuse me with the former President (Victoriano Huerta), although our names are almost alike."

With regard to a Mexican foreign loan, he evaded the issue by declaring: "These conversations with foreign journalists are the first steps which have been taken in this direction."

Mexico faces two problems at present," he continued. "These are the economic and military problems. Mexico is more completely pacified now than during the time of Porfirio Diaz, whose statue is that of a mere bandit, is not a military problem. Airplanes are being sent to locate Villa, who, pursued relentlessly, soon will be eliminated."

"The organization of the army, while difficult, will be being carried out without delay under the leadership of Plutarco Elias Calles, the War Minister."

Censorship Abolished. Asked regarding censorship of news dispatches, the President declared he had not been aware a censorship existed. Turning to his Chief of Staff, Col. Ramirez, he ordered that the censorship be abolished immediately. He said the censorship probably was left over from the former administration.

With regard to the administration policy toward the banks, De La Huerta said every assistance and guarantee would be given private banking enterprises, but that the Government would establish a national bank with the sole privilege of issuing secured paper currency. The same enlightened attitude toward banking would be assumed toward the petroleum industry, he stated. The Government making an effort to meet them half way in order to gain the friendship and respect of the nations and take its rightful place with the civilized governments of the world.

12 JURISTS PLANNING INTERNATIONAL COURT

Impressive Array of World Authorities Gathered at The Hague.

By the Associated Press.
THE HAGUE, June 21.—The 12 distinguished international jurists, among them Elihu Root of the United States, invited by the Executive Council of the League of Nations to plan the organization of the new Permanent Court of International Justice, constitute an impressive array of the world's most competent authorities on questions of international legislation. Those who accepted the invitation gathered here to undertake the task. Those invited were:

Baron Descamps, Belgian Minister of State, professor of international law at Louvain University; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague; secretary-general, formerly president, of the Institute of International Law, and writer on international questions.

M. Drago, formerly Foreign Minister of the Argentine republic. While holding that office he sent to the Argentine Minister in Washington instructions known as the Drago doctrine (1902). He was formerly Judge in Argentina; one of the arbitrators nominated by agreement between Great Britain and the United States in the North Atlantic Fisheries Arbitration, The Hague (1910); one of the Argentine delegates to the second peace conference at The Hague, and member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague.

Prof. Fadda, professor of Roman law at Naples University.

M. Promagot, legal adviser to the French Foreign Minister, member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague, and delegate to the second Hague peace conference.

M. Gram, formerly a Judge on the mixed tribunals in Egypt, former member of the Supreme Court of Norway; Minister of State at Stockholm before the severance of the union between Norway and Sweden; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague and member of the Institute of International Law.

Dr. Loder, member of the Court of Cassation of the Netherlands.

Lord Phillimore, English Privy Councillor; a Lord Justice of Appeal (1913-1916); president of the International Law Association (1904-1908); author of publications on ecclesiastical and international law and "Three Centuries of Treaties of Peace and Their Teaching" (1917); president of Committee of Inquiry appointed by the British Government on the subject of the League of Nations.

Elihu Root, former Secretary of State, United States; president of the American Society of International Law; member of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague; senior counsel for the United States in the North Atlantic Fisheries Arbitration at The Hague (1910); member of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal and head of special United States Mission to Russia (1917).

Satoshi Aikido, formerly Japanese Ambassador to Vienna, and one of the legal advisers of Japanese peace delegation in Paris.

Rafael Altamira, professor of law in Madrid University; Senator; Clovis Bevilacqua, professor of law and legal adviser to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Brazil.

Dr. George F. Hagerup, formerly Premier of Norway and Norwegian Minister to Denmark and London; member of the second Hague conference, where he supported the attitude of the United States on the inviolability of private property at sea.

Other Jurists. John M. Neskov, president of the Neskov-Mumford Motor Car Co. of 3327 Locust street, was fined $40 for speeding, $5 for resisting arrest and $5 for peace disturbance, in Police Judge Mike's court today.

A policeman testified that he arrested Neskov on Delmar boulevard after chasing him from Vandewater avenue to Whittier street about 12:30 a. m. today. He said Neskov used bad language and refused to drive. Bergdoll, wealthy convicted draft dodger, his revolver and threatened to shoot holes in his tires.

THE FIRST MEAT EATER. A pagan youth stood before an altar on which a lamb was being sacrificed.

Suddenly, a piece of the burning meat fell from the altar and he hastily snatched it up.

But he soon dropped it and, licking the hot grease from his fingers, got the first taste of delicious lamb.

Today thousands are enjoying this feast of the gods at CHILDS.

20 PERSONS INJURED IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Five Cut and Bruised When Auto, Trying to Avoid Another, Runs Into Pole.

Twenty persons were injured in motor vehicle accidents yesterday. Five were cut and bruised at 11 p. m. when an automobile driven by William Spurrier of St. Louis County swerved to avoid another machine speeding west and crashed into a pole at Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenue and overturned. Others in the machine were Myrtle Cobb, 19 years old, and Florence Thorpe, 18, both of 3873 Delmar boulevard; Charles E. Packett, 2936 Eads avenue, and David Morgan, 6337 Clayton avenue.

Three were injured at midnight when an automobile driven by Peter Conrad, 59, of 4137 Hartford street, became entangled in a broken guy wire of the United Railways Co. at Newstead and St. Louis avenues, the windshield and top of the car being torn off. Conrad, his wife, Mary, and John Pettemanager, 24, of 4298 Chippewa street, were cut and bruised.

Four were cut and bruised at 2:30 p. m. when an automobile, driven by J. Hinkle of Venice, Ill., was struck by a southbound Grand car at Grand and Garfield avenues. Hinkle, who was driving, failed to notice the approaching street car and turned directly in its path. Louis Hinkle, 35, of 1818 South Tenth street, Elam Hoffman, 44, a carpenter living at the same address, Hoffman's daughter, Mrs. Nettie Selfert, 25, and her five-year-old son William, were injured.

Charles Vaughn, 26, of 2453A Delah street, a singer, suffered concussion of the brain when his motor cycle skidded at Seventh and Wyoming streets at 5 p. m.

Lawrence Millett of 4465 St. Louis avenue was bruised when he leaped from a truck when it was demolished by a Wabash railroad switch engine at the Hall and Wright street crossing at 7:30 a. m. Millett told the police he saw no gates or watchman at the crossing.

Charles See, 31, of 5411 Beacon street, and his wife, Irene, 31, suffered scalp wounds and facial injuries when their automobile was overturned in collision with automobile driven by Jesse E. Jacks of 3422 Franklin avenue, at Twenty-first and Wash streets at noon.

Alvera Klestra, 4, of Ferguson, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Dr. Grace S. Mountjoy, 4457 Athlone avenue, when the child broke away from her mother and ran across the street at Twenty-first and Desha streets at 1 p. m. She was cut and bruised.

Mrs. Rose Jackson, 57, of 224 South Leffingwell avenue, a negro, suffered a fractured skull; Mrs. Julia Prince, 31, same address, was internally injured, and John Steed, a negro, same address, was cut and bruised at 2 p. m. when an automobile driven by Steed swerved into a fence and building at 3101 Pine street as Steed tried to avoid collision with another automobile.

CONSERVATORY WITH 40,000 PANES OF GLASS DESTROYED

LONDON, June 21.—At the Chatsworth estate recently Britain's largest flower palace was destroyed with explosives. Labor conditions and the high cost of coal caused the Duke of Devonshire to condemn the conservatory to the scrap heap. The problem of dismantling the immense structure—40,000 panes of glass and thousands of tons of ironwork—was solved by experts. They decided that explosives were advisable in this case. Charges of 150 lbs. of gun-cotton and other destructive elements were placed at the foundations, and fuses were inserted. The explosion was heard many miles away, and the glass and wreckage showered over a wide area. The glass and iron will be salvaged and sold.

Chatsworth flower palace, which was designed by Sir Joseph Paxton, was one of the wonders of the world, and it has been visited by millions. It was approached through a rocky ravine, and its dimensions were almost those of a cathedral. The conservatory has been described as "the very temple of tropical gardening." It was 277 feet in length, 123 feet in width and 67 feet high. Six miles of hot water pipes were used and the annual cost of heating before the war was $7500.

Murder, 18 Years Ago, Charged.

MIAMI, Ok., June 21.—Charged with stabbing and killing Bill Cross at Albany, Ky., 18 years ago, Bill Dewey, 60 years old, was arrested at Commerce, a mining camp north of here, yesterday and turned over to Kentucky officers. The killing was the outcome of a feud, it is said.

SUGAR

Facts and Figures

Source of Supply

The Sugar Supply for the United States is mostly drawn as Raw Sugar from Cuba, Hawaii and Porto Rico, although we do get some Cane Sugars from the state of Louisiana, and some Beet Sugars from the states of Michigan, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, Colorado, Wyoming and California. The Domestic Sugars come on the market from October until December and the Import Sugars reach us from January on until the crop is exhausted.

Sugar Prices

All Raw Sugar Crops of 1918 and 1919 were bought and paid for by the United States Government and sold by them to the refiners. These refiners then marketed this sugar under a license plan with their profits restricted to what the Government considered a reasonable margin. Under this Government plan there was a difference between Raw and Refined Sugars of about four cents per pound.

In the late Summer of 1919, the Cuban growers offered to the United States Government their entire crop of Raw Sugars at 6 1/2 cents per pound. The Government did not see fit to continue their 1918 and 1919 Sugar plan, but did say to the Beet Refiners in the West, that they should not get over 11 cents for Refined Granulated Sugar. Afterwards this was raised to 12 cents. About this same time, they allowed the Louisiana plantation owner to market his plantation Sugars at 17c per pound. Naturally the Beet man felt that he was not being treated right and what became of the Beet Sugars we don't know. The crop, however, seemed to clean up very readily and it possibly went into the hands of the speculators, who saw an opportunity to make big money.

WHEN WE SAY SPECULATOR, WE DON'T MEAN THE REGULAR SUGAR DEALER.

We mean the speculator, the real estate man, the lawyer, the financier, the baker and the candlestick maker, etc., who were not regular sugar dealers, but bought it purely as a speculation.

The dealer in Cuba saw after having offered his crop to the Government (and having them decline it), that the speculators in the United States were making fortunes out of Sugar. They naturally, in justice to themselves, said to themselves, we have treated the United States people fair but they are not fair with themselves and we had better get the profit for our own people. As a consequence Raw Sugars have continually advanced until today the Cuban is getting 20 cents for his Sugar instead of 6 1/2 cents.

Last sales reported were $20.56 per 100 pounds landed in New Orleans, which would make the Refiner's price to the wholesaler about 24 1/2 cents.

Advance Notice

Based on prices we are today paying for later delivery Sugars we will soon have to advance our prices beyond 24 cents. But we will only do so when we are forced to by a higher cost.

Higher Sugar Prices

If everybody continues to lay away Sugar it means prices will advance. If they hold back, however, and buy as little as they can get along with, SUGAR MAY come down. But hoarding will mean continued high Sugar prices.

MANY VIOLATIONS OF TREATY BY GERMANY REVEALED

Figures of French Members of Allied Control Commission Show Excessive Armed Forces.

NO AIRPLANES YET DELIVERED TO ALLIES

French Say Germans Will Execute Treaty Only When Allied Powers Forcibly Compel Her to Do So.

By LINCOLN EYRE, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World. Copyright, 1920, by The Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, June 20.—The amazing extent to which Germany has violated the military clauses of the peace treaty is revealed fully for the first time in definite data and figures furnished the Post-Dispatch, partly by the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs, partly by Marshal Foch's Intelligence Department. The information in question provides an explanation of France's fears of the recrudescence of German militarism and her insistence upon the rigid enforcement of the Versailles terms by the allied governments.

It is claimed that even a casual perusal of the long list of German evasions demonstrates the deliberation with which she has violated every clause calculated to impair her future military strength. Those few conditions with which she has complied—and they may be enumerated on the fingers of one hand—are concerned with minor matters having no direct bearing upon her new army's potentialities.

For instance, she has finally observed, after much evasion and under pressure of the French occupation of Frankfurt, the special convention limiting her troops in the neutral area east of the Rhine to 17,500. But the forces she continues to maintain in the Reich proper are more than twice as large as the treaty permits. The Reichswehr Sicherheitspolizei, in staff and other units engaged in winding up the affairs of the old imperial army, aggregate 400,000 soldiers, in addition to which there are 40,000 in the marine brigades and the volunteer corps and untold thousands more in the Zeitsfreiwillige (temporary volunteer) regiments and Einwohnervwehr (civil guards).

This formidable array of legions, equipped with an abundance of arms, ammunition and other war material, remains in existence a fortnight after the final date which, under the treaty, should have seen the German army reduced to a maximum of 200,000 men.

It will be recalled that while this reduction was supposed originally to have been completed three months after the treaty went into effect, or by April 10, the supreme council granted the Berlin Government one month's delay.

Disregards Armament Clauses. Even more startling is Germany's contemptuous disregard of the clauses governing the armament she is authorized to preserve. Where the table annexed to the military terms fixes at 204 the number of light field guns and at 84 the number of field howitzers she may have in her possession after the obligatory decrease in her army's strength, there are today, according to the Allied Commission of Control, no less than 22,000 cannon, many of them of large caliber, in German hands. Of machine guns she still possesses 26,000, where the treaty leaves her 1926. Her illegitimate stocks of other weapons are fully as, if not more, disproportionate to the amounts stipulated in the military clauses. As for ammunition, she has so vast a supply that no accurate totaling of it has been possible.

Her air force remains mobilized, and of thousands of airplanes she should have turned over to the allies, not one has left its German airframe.

Confidential reports made to the French Government by Gen. Nollet, Chief of the Control Commission, and other French members of that important body, are unanimous in testifying to the German authorities' lack of good faith in their relations with the allied military representatives. Germany will execute the treaty, French officers say, only if she is forced to do so. Her delegates, the French believe, will come to the Spa conference with their mouths full of promises as

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spots by external means. Ordinary mercurized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-soiled film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand-new complexion, a new skin. The exquisite beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired comes so easily, without harm to the skin, that it is a wonder why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Just an ounce of mercurized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, wash off in the morning. This will not fail in any case. It is the best thing known for freckles, moth patches, liver spots and pimples.

Closed Each Saturday from July 10th to September 1st.

Store Hours: 9 to 5:30; Saturday, 9 to 6

There Are Many Charming and "Different" Models in the Group of Tub Frocks at $35

Organdies—Batiste—Imported Voiles—Imported Crepes—Dotted Swisses

There is only one of a kind of most of these Dresses, and their departures from the usual in fashioning gives them delightful individuality. Plaited or plain, there are ruffles of net, organdie and self-material, cleverly placed. Tucking, hemstitching and Van Dyke points, little apron effects and panniers also lend their share of smartness.

They are in very pretty Summer colors, too—some showing a combination of colors.

SIGNS OF DISEASE

The First Signs of Disease Are a Poor Complexion, Weakness, Emaciation and Lack of Vitality

The first sign of returning health is increase of flesh, strength and ambition. Body weakness, emaciation and lack of vitality simply means that certain substances like iron, which go to make up the blood and nerves, have become exhausted; and to renew flesh, muscle and strength, the iron must be restored. Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Tablets contain iron in its most active and condensed form with such tonics as Nuxvomica, Gentian, Allen, Capsicum and Zinc Phosphate which makes them a powerful flesh and strength maker and a wonderful restorative to the nerves, imparting the tint of health to the weak, emaciated, convalescent and over-worked. Sold by

empty—unless the Entente Powers compel the fulfillment of them by severe means—as those to which she is committed herself at the signing of the treaty of Versailles a year ago.

Details of Violations.
The following survey, based on the French Government's data, shows in detail Germany's violations of the military clauses and the air clauses complementary to them.
(Articles 160 and 162.) Between them these articles provide for the reduction of the German army to 200,000 men, divided into a certain fixed number of military units.

This reduction, which is prohibitory to the final decrease in Germany's armed strength to 100,000, was supposed to have been carried out three months after the date of the treaty's being put into effect.
But the Supreme Council authorized the Germans to postpone the operation until May 10. Upon that date, instead of 200,000 men, Germany had, according to the Inter-Allied Control Commission's figures, a total of 400,000, not including troops she is authorized to maintain in the neutral area.

This total comprises 270,000 soldiers of the Reichswehr, 70,000 engaged in the liquidation of the old imperial army and 60,000 in the Sicherheitspolizei (special police force). It is exclusive, however, of two marine brigades and certain volunteer corps whose strength is estimated at 40,000. It does not include either the Zeiterwilligen or temporary volunteers and the Einwohnerwehr, or civic guards, whose estimated numbers run into many thousands.

Under Article 162, the 200,000 men which Germany was permitted to have under arms on May 10 should have been divided into not more than 14 infantry and six cavalry divisions, each composed of a specified number of lesser units. This form of organization, however, has been wholly disregarded by the German army as now constituted. The proportion specified for the various branches of the number of staffs and the total of special units do not correspond in any way to the treaty provisions. Eighty squadrons of cavalry do not figure in its composition.

Keep Heavy Artillery.
On the other hand, it includes 27 batteries of heavy artillery or of anti-aircraft guns and numerous aerona-utical and technical formations, all of which are forbidden by the treaty. It has 32 infantry battalions, 30 batteries of artillery and 24 staffs more than are allowed by Articles 160 and 162. Formations not specified by the treaty, such as cyclist companies, companies for railroad exploitation, infantry liaison staffs, are being introduced.

The proportion of officers is considerably greater than it should be.
Germany's disingenuous behavior is proved by such incidents as her demand to have brigade staffs composed of 15 officers and 65 men, where the French have only one officer and five men. As regards their military forces, the Germans report the dissolution of one of their marine brigades. The Berlin Government has ordered that the Zeiterwilligen be disbanded save for those required to maintain order in the Ruhr Valley and Leipzig, but the allied commission finds no evidence that this order has been obeyed. The order for mustering out the Einwohnerwehr was promulgated from Berlin April 5 to the governments of the various German states. Its wording, however, made it rather a hint to camouflage still further the Einwohnerwehr through modifying their armament and relieving them of military exercises, than an act of suppression. The Sicherheitspolizei continues to exist in the form in which it was organized, though the Germans claim it now numbers only 60,000 men. In the opinion of the allied military experts, it and the Reichswehr together constitute the nucleus which, in a comparatively short time, might be expanded into an army several millions strong.

Probably with this idea in mind,
Germany coolly demanded permission to retain 15 additional batteries of anti-aircraft guns, which she insisted were essential for the repression of the Spartacist uprising. 12 batteries of heavy artillery, 21 batteries of minenwerfers, and eight aviation camps.

Civilian Personnel Maintained.
Article 161, which provides for the reduction of the army's civilian personnel to one-tenth of that laid down in the German budget of 1913, has not been carried out. Article 162, which forbids any increase in the numbers of municipal police, customs officers, forest guards and coast guards, is believed to have been violated, though to what extent is unknown as yet. Article 164, which limits the German armament to the amounts fixed in that table annexed to the military clauses has been grossly violated.

The Reichswehr and the Sicherheitspolizei between them have double or treble the quantity of portable arms allowed under the table. They have fully 200 light field guns and more than a hundred heavier guns, the possession of which is flatly for-bidden.

Article 165 specifies the total stock of ammunition Germany is authorized to retain. Her violation of this article is so flagrant that the Allied Control Commission has been unable accurately to enumerate the huge stores of shells, cartridges, powder and explosive the Germans have hidden away. Article 166 stip-ulating the storing of munitions by Germany at certain places approved by the allies has been largely disregarded.

Article 167 empowers the allies to fix the amount of artillery and other arms required for the armament of German fortresses. The Control Commission fixed at 3600 the number of guns to be retained under this article, but the Germans insisted that 4975 guns was the indispensable minimum. On two occasions the allies formally ordered the German Government to carry out their instructions in this matter without further delay. Thus far, however, the order has been disobeyed.

Factories on War Work.
Article 168 forbids the Germans to manufacture weapons of any kind in factories other than those approved by the allies. Here again the Germans have violated the treaty.

North Dakota Tax Refund.
BISMARCK, N. D., June 21.—Cities and towns of North Dakota which levied 1919 taxes in excess of a 10 per cent increase over those for 1918, must refund the excess to the taxpayers, according to a ruling of the State Supreme Court Saturday. Refunds that have to be made will reach half a million dollars, it is estimated by State Tax Commissioner George E. Wallace.

man Government has deliberately sought to evade the treaty terms. The 'allied commissioners' encountered great difficulty in their efforts at factory inspection.

Gen. Lohet reported that he was convinced there were between 20,000 and 25,000 factories formerly engaged on war work, but that only 2131 were accounted for by the Berlin Government. Of this number, 293 have been finally passed upon and 531 have either already been or are being inspected.

The commission authorized Germany to retain two state arsenals for the manufacture or storage of the following categories of war material: Powder, explosives, ammunition; but the Germans replied that they must have at least 79 such establishments—a proposition wholly unacceptable to the allies.

The secret manufacture of guns and other material is carried on under the allied inspectors' very noses. Thus, in the Krupp works at Essen, a French rifle accidentally discovered 60 field pieces, 180 ammunition wagons and hundreds of shell cases, the existence of which had been kept carefully hidden from the Control Commission.

Article 169 directs the surrender by Germany two months after the treaty came into force of all arms and other war material in excess of the quantities she is authorized to retain under articles 164 and 165. By her own admission, Germany still holds 21,800 guns or gun barrels, 26,000 machine guns, 752,800 portable arms, seven tanks and 20 flame throwers. All of these are of German make.

Foreign-Made Weapons.
In addition, she admits there are in her possession the following weapons of foreign origin: 887 guns or gun barrels, 66 minnewerfers, 5900 machine guns and 647,000 portable arms, which figures the Control Commission considers far less than the real number. Germany expresses her readiness to turn this material over to the allies for destruction, but she is very slow in doing so. Nor has she provided any lists of war material other than that used for combatant purposes. For instance, no inventory whatever of the wagons, harness and other supply train equipment has been forthcoming.

Material actually delivered to the allies is for the most part old and dilapidated, the newer stuff being kept for the Reichswehr. The Berlin authorities specially requested to be permitted to retain their flame throwers, claiming that there were much more serviceable in the quelling of riots than the more murderous machine guns.

Article 170 forbidding the importation or exportation of war material by Germany, frequently has been violated, as was shown by the notes of protest issued on several occasions by the Council of Ambassadors. Germany was recently charged with sending of large shipments of arms inland.

Article 171, by which the manufacture, importation or storing of poisonous gases and analogous liquids, armored cars, tanks and similar devices was prohibited, has been observed officially. There is reason to believe, however, that apophizing gases are still being made secretly.

Observed One Clause.
Article 172, which obliges Germany to disclose to the allied governments the "nature and mode of all explosives, toxic substances and other like chemical preparations used in war," is one of the few provisions with which the Germans have complied in full.

Articles 173, 174 and 175, covering the terms of German military service, have been violated in that no legislation has been adopted by the national assembly to enforce them. Article 176, calling for the suppression of cadet and other military schools, has been observed.

Article 177, forbidding educational and other clubs or societies to pursue military exercises, has been evaded to the extent that the Reichswehr officers are assigned to instruct certain scholastic organizations in gymnastic training.

Article 178 suppresses "mobilization measures and supplementary cadres" for existing military formations. While the mobilization centers have been suppressed by the Government reserves containing supplementary cadres of officers in the shape of Sicherheitspolizei, Zeitfreiwilligen and Einwohnerversch, are still at the Government's disposal.

Article 179 has been fulfilled by Germany for the reason that no other country at the present time wants to receive German military missions, which this article is designed to forbid.

Article 180, which provides for the disarming and dismantling of fortified places west of a line drawn 50 kilometers east of the Rhine, have been executed under the guns of the allied armies of occupation.

Regarding Air Forces.
The following data treat of those air clauses which concern the military, as distinct from the naval, terms of the treaty.

Article 198 begins: "The armed forces of Germany must not include any military or naval air forces." As previously stated, numerous aerial squadrons are still attached to both the Reichswehr and Sicherheitspolizei. Article 199, providing for the demobilization of the air force personnel within two months after the treaty takes effect, remains unexecuted. The Germans requested the privilege of conserving the police aeronautical forces, totaling 144 officers and 1856 men. This was refused by the council of Ambassadors on March 11. Nevertheless an aerial personnel aggregating some 3000 men is still mobilized.

Article 200 accords Allied aircraft the right of free passage and landings over and on German authority. The German government has initiated no legislation designed to enforce this Article. Article 201, which prohibits the manufacture of aircraft or their parts have been carried out only

Wonderful Summer Dress Display

Assortments of the most comprehensive character, styles of distinction, and values that welcome the test of critical comparison

Every effort has been put forth to assemble fashions just a trifle different from those generally shown. The success of our endeavors in this regard is acclaimed by all who attend. Universal has been the endorsement of Sonnenfeld modes for Summer.

There are organdies of sheer texture, imported voiles in engaging fashions, figured voiles in patterns novel but in perfect good taste. All sizes and appropriate models are here for both women and misses.

See—it's a magic figure! Here's why it is—it forces the hot, sudsy water in the 1900 Cataract Electric Washer through the clothes, in a figure 8 movement, four times as often as in the ordinary washer! That's what makes it the perfect washing machine.

Then there's the gleaming copper tub—no parts in it to rub against the clothes and cause wear and tear. No heavy cylinders to lift out and clean.

And the wringer—works electrically! You can move it from the washer clear over to the clothes basket without moving or shifting the washer an inch!

In 8 or 10 minutes your clothes are snowy white and clean—and at a cost of less than 2 cents an hour running the washer.

Our Special Trial Offer

In factories visited by the Control Commission. Aircraft importation, also barred under this article, has not been made the subject of special laws by the National Assembly, however.

Prussians Destroyed Planes.
Article 202 decrees that all military and naval aeronautical material save 100 seaplanes employed in mine searching, shall be delivered to the Allies. On May 2, the Germans began violations of this clause by destroying considerable numbers of planes in Prussia and Bavaria. The Control Commission also discovered 14 planes hidden away, as well as 297 motors.

In the Allied inspections of German airdromes and factories a total of 8,932 airplanes, 11,533 motors and 11 dirigible were located. No planes or other material whatever, however, has been actually turned over to the Allied governments. Figures on the amount of destruction wrought by Germans are unobtainable at this time. Two other articles intimately associated with the application of military clauses have been violated wholly or partly by Germany. Article 206 refers to facilities the Berlin government is supposed to grant the Control Commission, and which in many cases have been withheld, temporarily at least; Article 211 calls for the modification of German laws necessary for the execution of this part of the treaty. No such modification has taken place.

Under Article 235, Germany has so far not made any advances of money on the 20,000,000,000 gold marks, bonds for which amount were to have been issued under this article.

Hold Stolen Cash.
As provided in Article 238, restitutions of an industrial and agricultural order have taken place under reasonable conditions, in execution of the protocols of the armistice. But concerning household effects, works of art, securities and money, no restitution has as yet been made. Germany is discussing the procedure to be followed in this regard. Neither cash stolen by the Germans nor securities have yet been turned over, and up to the present the German delegation has only given the Commission of Reparations dilatory answers on this point.

The handing over of merchant ships and fishing boats has not taken place within the two months provided for. This delay has been caused by the fact that Germany tried to obtain from the Commission of Reparations concessions of the total delivery of tonnage.

Germany has executed in part the restitution in kind of river boats, which since Aug. 1, 1914, came into her possession or into the possession of one of the allies. On the other hand, Germany has not turned over to the Commission of Reparations part of her river fleet to the amount of river tonnage losses of the Allies during the war. Nor has Germany so far given any inventory of her river fleet. Germany has, up to the present, put such conditions on the delivery of particularly urgent material for the restoration of the devastated regions, that her offers have been considered unacceptable.

The deliveries of German coal to France, made in the first four months of 1920, when the quantities delivered in anticipation, according to the protocol of August 29, 1919, are added, are very much less than was provided for by the commission of reparations and required by the treaty of peace. Thus, for the month of May, the Commission of Reparations had fixed the deliveries at 1,800,000 tons, but the deliveries made up to date do not exceed 800,000 tons.

No deliveries of benzol, tar or coke have been made. The deliveries of sulphate of ammonia are only beginning. No deliveries of pharmaceutical products have been made.

French Archives Not Returned.
The German Government has not given any answer to the request of the French Government that the stolen French archives be returned. None of the clauses of article 259 has been executed by Germany.

The clauses of chapter 1 (articles 254 to 267) all have been violated, concerning both importations and exportation. Germany has established an arbitrary and secret system of discrimination which permits her to receive merchandise from one source, while excluding that of another. For her exports she makes different prices, according to the country to which they are destined—Allied, neutral or former enemy; the German administration also intervenes in business done by private persons so as to change the price, the date of delivery, the money to be paid, and even to prevent transactions altogether.

Contrary to Articles 60 and 268 the products from Alsace-Lorraine, which should be admitted freely with certain limitations, are still interdicted and subject to license. Only recently Germany agreed to do away with the import duties imposed on these products. The same applies to the products from the Saar.

been made by Germany for the application of Articles 274 and 275, providing for the prevention of unfair competition with Allied or associated manufacturers. Contrary to article 276, the nationals of the Allied and Associated Powers are obliged to submit to discriminatory prices under a secret order of the German administration, amounting from double to five times the prices paid by German people.

Discovers the "Sex" of Boots.
PARIS, June 21.—The sexograph, the new scientific instrument by which the sex of birds' eggs can be determined, has been put to further uses. An investigator in the Roulevard St. Germain recently tested two pairs of boots with the machine, and was surprised to find that one pair of a cow must have been made from the hide of a bull calf and the other from that of a cow.

Unaffected by the Rains and Clouds Which Damaged So Much of the Hard Wheat Crop

Even the present unusual scarcity of first-grade hard winter-wheat has not caused us to lower the quality of Valier's Enterprise Flour.

From the few favored spots untouched by the bad weather which injured so much of the crop, we secured an ample supply of grain of the usual high standard.

Every bushel commanded an exceptionally high premium, yet we paid it gladly that you might continue to have a flour of the same high quality to which you have been accustomed.

Valier's Enterprise Flour
is milled by a special slow process from this carefully selected grain. It retains all of the unusual baking qualities found only in such wheat.
Consequently you can depend on Valier's Enterprise Flour to produce uniformly good results. If you have been troubled by failures lately, which you cannot account for, try a sack. The difference will surprise you.
Of course such flour sells for slightly more but the difference is repaid in the end. You will save the complete loss resulting from needless failures and get

MISS JEANNE FARMER TO WED IN FALL

Engagement to Edward Klein, Former University of Missouri Athlete, Is Announced.

THE engagement of Miss Jeanne Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Farmer of 5802 Westminster place, to Edward Klein, was announced today at a luncheon-bridge given by Mrs.
Farmer at her home for 26 of her daughter's friends. The announcement was made through tiny hearts which were concealed in the roses which decorated the table.

No date has been set for the wedding, but it will probably take place in the late fall.

Mr. Klein is the son of Mrs. Irene Klein of 1364 McCausland avenue.
He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and is well known in athletics. During the war he served two years in France as a First Lieutenant of artillery and was decorated with the Croix de Guerre by the French Government. He was also recommended for the D. S. C.

Miss Farmer and her mother will depart July 1 for Colorado, to be gone until fall.

Social Items

The marriage of Miss Helen Jane Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
William Gallagher of 4208 West Pine boulevard, and Byron Robert Foley, will take place at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the New Cathedral, the Rev.
Father Francis Giffilan officiating.
Miss Gladys Widdicombe will be bridesmaid and Mr. Foley will be attended by Robert West as best man.
Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride will be gowned in white embroidered net and will wear a hat of white mulline and Chantilly lace.
She will carry gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Mr. Foley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Foley of 5259 Watervan avenue.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon on the Great Lakes and will make their home at 4208 West Pine boulevard.

Mrs. Guy H. Wright of the Kingsbury apartments departed today for
New York, to be gone until Oct. 1.
After a motor trip through the White Mountains Mrs. Wright will go to Lennox, Mass., where Mr. Wright will join her.

Mrs. J. Clark Clardy of 5046
Kingsbury boulevard, and Miss Georgine Culling of 6829 Watervan avenue departed Sunday for Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Boyd of Kirkwood are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter on Wednesday, June 16.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gury of 710
King's highway, and their daughters,
Misses Gladys and Claire Gury, sailed
June 23 for Europe to be gone three months.

Mrs. Lewis Dozier of 501 Clara avenue, will depart June 27 for Santa Barbara, Cal., to be gone three months. Mr. Dozier will join her there later.

The marriage of Miss Katherine Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.
T. Nelson of 5835 Garfield avenue, and William Heedy took place Wednesday morning at the Blessed Sacrament Church. The Rev.
Father John Walsh of Kaufman, Mo., a cousin of the bridegroom, officiated in the presence of the families and a few intimate friends.

Mrs. Linn Piper of 5551 Enright

The Perfected Nut Butter—BEST or Your Money Back

Read this excerpt of an article by Alfred W.
McCann, published in the New York Globe of January 31, 1920.

If the nut butter you now use contains a chemical preservative it will appear on the package.

"Benzoate of Soda is a substitute for high grade raw materials;
a substitute for clean hands; a substitute for clean kettles; a substitute for clean methods of manufacturing. Low grade raw materials handled slovenly, shifted, shoveled, poured in bulk, can be kept from rotting by the use of benzoate or any other embal-ming agent. High grade raw materials handled under clean and wholesome surroundings, free from infection, with self-respect and decency on guard, require no germicide or other chemical preservative to keep them fit."

Look closely at the label of the Nut Butter you buy. You are fully protected by the laws regarding the labeling of food products if you will only use your eyes.

Margarine packages tell their own story.
When buying Nut Butter, look carefully to see whether the label bears the statement,
"contains one-tenth of 1% Benzoate of Soda."
Assure yourself of absolute purity and freedom from Benzoate of Soda by using

Fowls on the Leash in Berlin.
BERLIN, June 21.—The cost of fowls in Berlin has reached such a pitch that even the humblest families have taken to keeping hens. A fowl cannot, however, spend its whole life in a six-story apartment, and many people now take their chickens out for walks on a leash in the parks. In certain open spaces special "grazings" are being let out for the exclusive use of domestic fowls.

ROADS FIGHT MOTHERS' TAX

Twelve railroad companies operating in St. Clair County have made objections to the levying of taxes for mothers' pension and for the East St. Louis School District in the St. Clair County Court at Belleville. The objections raised are that the levying of additional tax for mothers' pensions exceeds the 50-cent limit on tax for county purposes. In the school tax matter it is contended that the tax is above the statutory limit. Judge Messick has the mothers' tax proposition under advisement, but in the school tax objection entered an order overruling it.

PICKFORD MINUS CURLS CLEANS UP IN 'SUDS'

Geraldine Farrar in Dance Hall Drama Also a Feature of Week's Offerings.

Mary Pickford sacrifices her beauty to the requirements of art in "Suds," an adaptation of "Hop 'o My Thumb," a famous stage play in which Maude Adams made one of her big successes. "Suds" opened for a week yesterday at the West end Lyric, the Lyric Skydome and the New Grand Central.

Here is a Pickford without the famous Pickford curls, without the fascinating dimples and with a pug nose, a pathetic little washed-out creature who works in a laundry and so longs for love and companionship that she "invents" a sweetheart by hanging her imaginary romance on the line with a shirt that has been left at the laundry and has not been called for. She builds her romance around the owner of this shirt, picturing him as a hero and telling the other girls that he will come back when the war is over to make her his own.

When her hero, Horace Green-smith, returns to claim the shirt he is rather disillusioning and not at all the sort of hero she has pictured but she carries her "bluff" through and all ends happily.

In this play Miss Pickford essays an emotional role unlike anything she has ever attempted. Despite her almost complete obliteration of a personality that has taken her to the top of the movie ladder she registers very strongly here. The picture holds the interest throughout and is beautifully photographed.

All the resources of scenic art and beautiful costuming have been brought into play to make a notable production of "The Woman and the Puppet," which opened yesterday at the Kings Theater and Airdome with Geraldine Farrar in the leading role. The wholesomeness of this picture play is a matter of taste. In many ways it is reminiscent of Carmen. One of its authors was Pierre Louys, who wrote the much talked-of "Aphrodite." In many of its situations it is frankly sensual.

Miss Farrar is a Spanish cigarette maker, with whom a nobleman falls in love. The part of the nobleman is well played by Lou Tellegen. Learning that the nobleman has been surreptitiously paying money to her mother for the daughter's support, the sensitive cigarette maker runs away from home and becomes a cafe dancer. Here is the chance for "dance hall stuff," and the producer has made the most of this rather trite opportunity. In the end the nobleman proves that his intentions were as noble as his title and the wedding bells ring out.

Melodrama and "big business" are deftly combined in the plot of "The Silver Horde," a film version of a Rex Beach story which opened yesterday at the Pershing and the Mozart Airdome for a four-day run. The story is laid in the Northwest, and is based on the efforts of a villainous Wall street gang to bamboozle a lot of poor but honest salmon fishers. R. D. MacLean and Myrtle Steadman have the leading roles. After many adventures they tie a salmon can to the leading villain and the old fishin' hole is saved.

SHOT IN HAND DURING QUARREL

Bartender Wounded by Man Who Says He Tried to Settle Row
Theodore Hodges, 36 years old, of 1322 South Sixth street, a bartender, was shot in the left hand in a fight at noon yesterday with George Eckerts, 1155 South Sixth street, an ice and coal dealer, and Eckert's father-in-law, Ferdinand K. Smith, proprietor of a store at 1144 South Sixth street.

Smith told the police he fired the shot that wounded Hodges and claimed he shot in self-defense when Hodges threw a pair of ice tongs at him. Smith said Hodges and Eckerts had quarreled previously, and yesterday, while Eckerts was delivering ice at the Smith store, Hodges appeared and attempted to drag Eckerts off the wagon. Smith interfered to restore peace, when he said, Hodges attacked him and he fired. Hodges was taken to the city hospital. Smith was arrested.

25,000 DEATHS IN SIX WEEKS

Cemetery Records at Kiev Show That Many Typhus Victims
WARSAW, June 21.—The Cemetery records of Kiev show that 25,000 Jews died of typhus within six weeks just prior to the Polish occupation, according to Superintendent Mandel, director of Kiev's largest Jewish hospital.

BUG-OLOGY What do you call them?

Bedbug (Cimex lectularius). The origin of the name bedbug is unknown, but is supposed to be naturally suggested as it is descriptive. There are many local names for these parasites, as for illustration, around Boston they are called "chinchies," from the fact that the name Mahogany Flat, in New York they are called "peaky devils," in Cincinnati and the South they are called "peaky devils," in St. Louis and Chicago district "grimy bampers," in Great Britain "piggies." The old saying, "the best thing has no teeth, but they are just the same," is correct. Instead of teeth to draw and rob you of your blood for their own body. No matter what you may call them, or where they came from, science has found a way to rid them if you will use faithfully the new chemical Peaky Devil Quicker (P. D. Q.). A 50c package makes one quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas, ants or cockroaches, and their eggs as well. P. D. Q. will not injure bedding and each package contains a patent receipt to enable you to get them in the best-kept places. Impossible for Peaky Devil to exist where P. D. Q. is used. Sold by Wolf-Wilson, Judge & Delph and other leading druggists.

OLDFIELD TIRES WIN AGAIN

At Uniontown, Pa., Saturday, Oldfield Tires won for Tommy Milton in his Deussenberg.

First Place—At an average speed of ninety-five miles an hour for two hundred and twenty-five miles.

Just as Oldfields won for Gaston Chevrolet in the 500-mile classic at Indianapolis, where for the first time in the history of the speedway the winner went through without a single tire change.

For years tire manufacturers have offered the verdict of the speedway as the best argument why you should use their tires.

Oldfield Tires at Indianapolis and again at Uniontown have established a record that settles all argument.

Buy these speed-tested tires and tubes—tires designed and perfected by Barney Oldfield, "master driver of the world." They are the most trustworthy tires built.

Makeshift Coverings?—Or Positive Clothes Protection?

How often have you seen automobile seats covered with old newspapers, towels, linen dusters etc.—to keep clothes clean?

That is what Gordon Jiffy Cushion Slips are for—positive clothes protection. They are removable and washable. They cover the cushions you sit on and lean against—protecting your clothes from the hidden dirt and grime that lodges in the creases and crevices of the upholstery. And they make auto seats more comfortable. They are cooler in summer, warmer in winter and they keep you from slipping and sliding around on the seats.

GORDON
JIFFY CUSHION SLIPS

$3.40 to $8.15
Per Seat

These attractive coverings button-hole onto your car like any simple garment. You can put them on or take them off in a "jiffy." When they are soiled, just throw them in with the family wash or send them to the laundry. They are made of durable, pre-shrunk tub materials and can safely be laundered over and over again.

Many light and dark patterns—for practically every American-made open and enclosed car.

Gordon Easy-on Tire Covers

Don't lose mileage by carrying uncovered spare tires. Cover them with Easy-on Tire Covers. Made of good materials for all styles of tire carriers and wire wheels. Priced from $2.30 up.

THREE contributions which were received too late for acknowledgment in yesterday's paper put the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Ice
Fund past the $700 mark.
An ice cream sale by Billy and Inez Woodward of 5255 Vernon avenue netted $1 for the babies. These two little workers say they hope to be able to clear a similar amount each week during the entire summer for the cause.
George and Edward Dougherty, 6135 McPherson avenue, assisted by several playmates, gave a picture show at their home recently and realized $1.75 which they forwarded to the Milk and Ice Fund.

ROOT SUGGESTS PLAN FOR INTERNATIONAL COURT

Would Make Provision for Admission of German and Russian Judges Later On.

By the Associated Press.
THE HAGUE, June 21.—Among the plans for the creation of an international court of justice suggested to the commission of jurists now engaged here in working out the project, is one by Elihu Root, former American Secretary of State, which provides that one panel of nominees for places on the court be chosen by the assembly of the League of Nations, in which all the Powers are represented, and another panel by the council of the league, in which only the great Powers have places.
The judges then would be selected from the two panels.
Root has also pointed out that some day Germany and Russia again will be considered as among the great Powers, and has suggested that the plan be flexible enough to permit their being represented.

SECURITY

These notes are the obligation of the St. Louis-Comey Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, with a capital of $200,000. This company is a subsidiary of the R. H. Comey Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with its headquarters at Brooklyn, New York. The parent corporation has an authorized capital of $1,000,000.
The notes are secured by a first mortgage on a lot of ground at the northeast corner of Boyle and Duncan avenues in the City of St. Louis. The lot fronts 400 feet on the north line of Duncan avenue by 192 feet on the east line of Boyle avenue. This property is located in the most valuable section of the central West End industrial district of St. Louis. Within a short distance are located the Ford Motor Car Company Assembly Plant, the Dorris Motor Car Company, Missouri State Company, the Lupton Pharmaceutical Company, the American Radiator Company, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, and other similar industries.
The improvements consist of one six-story building, one two-story building, and one large one-story building. The buildings are of brick and concrete construction, absolutely fireproof. These buildings cover practically the entire plot of ground and are to be used mainly for the purpose of the St. Louis-Comey Company. This company is engaged in the business of dyeing and bleaching braid and straw used in the manufacture of men's and women's hats.
A considerable part of the capital stock of the local company has been taken by a number of wholesalers of hats and millinery goods, insuring a strong and continuous demand for the products of the company.
On the north side of the building runs a railroad switch connecting with the main line of the Wabash and Rock Island Railroads, giving to the property excellent shipping facilities.
The property is advantageously located for any large industry, and the buildings are of a most substantial character, conveniently arranged.
While we consider the real estate security ample, the fact that payment of principal and interest is guaranteed by the parent corporation, which has been successfully transacting business for more than thirty-five years, renders the investment most inviting.
Ample fire and tornado insurance is provided for the additional protection for the noteholder.
The title was examined and approved by our own Legal Department, which also prepared the mortgage papers.
These notes are offered subject to prior sale at par and accrued interest to net purchasers six per cent.

Correspondence With China
Shows Agreement on Disposition of Kiaow Chow Was Early Sought.

URGED CHINESE TO POLICE TERRITORY

Intended to Restore Possessions, but Had to Keep Troops There Because Peking Delayed Action.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, June 16.—In connection with the note handed to the Chinese Government in Peking by the Japanese Ambassador on June 14, the Japanese Foreign Office today issued an official statement, embodying correspondence passed between Japan and China on the subject of negotiations for the settlement of the Shantung question.

This correspondence shows that in its reply to China's note of May 22, the Japanese Government declared that "a fundamental agreement" already existed between China and Japan as to the disposition of the leased territory of Kiaow-Chow in Shantung and that Japan therefore could not understand China's previous declaration to negotiate directly with Japan relative to the restoration of Kiaow-Chow to China and the settlement of incidental details, regardless of the fact that China had not signed the treaty of Versailles.

Text of Statement.

The text of the Foreign Office statement reads:
"When the treaty of peace became effective in January, the German rights and interests in Shantung passed into the possession of Japan by virtue of the provisions of the pact. The Japanese Government, in accordance with repeated declarations and pledges, and with a desire and intention to effect a restoration of Kiaow-Chow to China and to settle matters incidental thereto, instructed the Japanese Minister at Peking to inform the Chinese Government as follows:

"First, that the Japanese Government, desiring to open negotiations with China relative to the restoration of Kiaow-Chow, and the settlement of details incidental thereto, and hoping thus to effect a speedy solution of the entire question, expresses the hope the Chinese Government will make the necessary preparations for negotiations.
"That it is the intention of the Japanese Government to withdraw its troops from along the Shantung railway as a matter of course upon agreement between the two governments regarding the disposition of Kiaow-Chow. In fact, the Japanese Government wishes to withdraw its troops as speedily as possible, even before an agreement is entered into, but, in the absence of any competent force to assume the duty of guarding the railway after evacuation, it is constrained to keep those troops temporarily stationed there to insure the security of communications and safeguard the interests of Japan and China, who are co-partners in a joint enterprise.
Important Questions Unsettled.

"The Japanese Government, therefore, hoped the Chinese Government, appreciating the intentions of Japan, would promptly organize a police force to replace Japanese troops guarding the railway, even before agreement was reported as to other details. The Japanese Government was fully prepared to proceed with negotiations to carry out its pledges, but nearly three months passed without a reply. It is a source of deepest regret that at a time when all nations of the world are making efforts for the establishment of enduring peace, questions of importance remain unsettled between Japan and China.

"The Japanese Government, being all the more desirous of speedily settling the matter for the mutual benefit of the two countries, instructed the Japanese Minister in Peking on April 26 to urge upon the Chinese Government the importance of taking the necessary steps. It was not until May 22 until the Chinese Government replied to this request of the Japanese Government. The reply was in the nature of a request for delay, the Chinese Government saying:

"The Chinese Government fully appreciates the intention of Japan to prepare for the evacuation of troops along the Kiauchau Railway, which is incidental to carrying out the terms of the treaty of peace. China, however, did not sign that treaty and is not in a position to negotiate directly with Japan on the question of Kiauchau. Furthermore, the people throughout China have assumed an indignant antagonistic attitude toward the question. For these reasons, and also in consideration of the amity existing between Japan and China, the Chinese Government does not find itself in a position to reply at this moment.

Military Establishment Not Needed.
"On the other hand, the state of war with Germany having ceased to exist, all Japanese military establishments within and without the leased territory of Kiauchau are unnecessary and the restoration of pre-war conditions is heartily desired by the Chinese Government. The

AN ironing which would take five hours to do by hand is easily done in one hour with the THOR Electric Ironer.

95% of the pieces in the average family washing are just the kind of pieces the THOR Ironer was made to do. Rompers, Children's Dresses, Men's Shirts, Aprons, Linen and House Dresses are among the things ironed readily by the THOR, which most folks think have to be done by hand. Bed Linens, Table Linens and even embroidered pieces are given a beautiful finish in record time.

Whether you hire help or do your own ironing, you need this THOR Ironer. It saves even more time than your electric washer.

Stronger Than is Usually Thought Necessary

The powerful and enduring body of Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes is far thicker than that of ordinary tubes—in some cases as much as twenty per cent.

It is made of rubber so pure that it floats—and instead of being made from a single heavy sheet, it is laboriously built up of many thin sheets welded inseparably together.

This remarkable construction prevents porosity and imperfections, and its cross-grain texture protects the tube against ripping.

In every detail and feature Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are stronger than is usually thought necessary—even their valve-patches are vulcanized in, instead of being stuck on.

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are packed in sturdy waterproof bags, and are relatively as superior to ordinary tubes as Goodyear Cord Tires are to ordinary tires.

Their initial cost is no more than the price you are asked for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available?

Chinese troops in order to maintain the safety of the line. However, as the restoration of Kiaow-Chow to China is a matter of trust, the execution of the restoration is a matter of trust.

"Upon receipt of the Imperial Government's note to the Chinese Government, the Japanese Government was in a position to prompt the restoration of Kiaow-Chow to China. troops in order to secure and maintain the safety of the whole. However, as this is independent of the question of the restoration of Kiauchau, the Chinese Government trusts Japan will not delay the execution of the order for evacuation.

"Upon receipt of this reply the Imperial Government of Japan addressed a note to the Chinese Government, urging reconsideration. This memorandum follows:

"In its note the Chinese Government stated it did not find itself in a position to promptly meet the request of Japan for the opening of negotiations looking to an adjustment of questions, arrangements for which were provided for in the treaty of peace with Germany. This stand on the part of the Chinese Government was taken because of the importance which it attaches to relations between Japan and China, because China has not signed the treaty of peace with Germany, and, further, because the people of China are indignant.

"Agreement Already Existed.

"The Japanese Government, however, would point out that a fundamental agreement exists between China and Japan as to the disposition of the leased territory of Kiauchow. Repeated declarations of the Imperial Japanese Government leave no room for doubt as to the single purpose of which, with Japan, seeks at the earliest date a fair and just settlement of the question. The Imperial Japanese Government, therefore, fails to understand the contention of the Chinese Government that it does not find it convenient to negotiate directly. It is a plain and positive fact that all the rights and interests that Germany formerly possessed in Shantung have been transferred to Japan in accordance with the treaty of peace. Since the Chinese Government previously had consented to the transfer of those rights and interests, they have rightly come into the possession of Japan. It follows naturally, therefore, that these rights cannot be affected in any way by the refusal of the Chinese Government to sign the treaty of peace."

"Immediately upon the coming into force of the treaty of peace with Germany, the Japanese Government, in accordance with its past-repeated declarations and pledges, proposed to the Chinese Government that negotiations be opened with a view to restoration of rights and interests in Shantung under the understanding reached in Paris, and that they also enter negotiations over matters in connection with the restoration of territory formally leased to Germany."

"The Japanese Government had hoped the Chinese Government would respond readily to the proposal not to hesitate to open the way for the Japanese Government to demonstrate by concrete actions its policy of fairness and justice towards China."

"China Declined to Negotiate.

"Contrary to expectations, however, the Chinese Government, after a delay of several months, replied that it did not find it advisable to negotiate, giving the reasons above stated. It is, hardly necessary to point out, therefore, where rests the responsibility for delaying the settlement of the Shantung question. The Imperial Japanese Government, however, always considering the amity between Japan and China, hereby reiterates its declaration that it will accept a proposal for negotiations at any time considered agreeable to the Chinese Government."

"In connection with the railway guard along the Shantung railways, the Japanese Government refers to the note of January, containing the statement of its intention to withdraw Japanese troops at once, even before the conclusion of negotiations, if the Chinese police force is made competent to take over the responsibility of guarding mutual interests."

"Reference is made to military equipment established in and around Kiauchow. This constitutes additional ground for negotiations. It is with the desire definitely to settle with China as to the disposition of this equipment that the Japanese Government seeks to commence negotiations. If the Chinese Government shall proceed to negotiate, it is hardly to be emphasized that all other questions will be solved simultaneously."

"In conclusion, while the Japanese Government deeply regrets the enforced delay in carrying out the agreements reached at the Paris conference, it stands unchanged in its sincere desire to promote a fair and just solution of this question with the least possible delay and to pursue a fixed policy toward China."

ARTHUR E. MOONEY, 68, DIES

Arthur E. Mooney, 68 years old, of 2514 McPherson avenue, who for 25 years was a shorthand reporter in the Circuit Court, died yesterday from a complication of diseases. He began his shorthand work in 1874, and for many years following his career at the courthouse, was a partner in the firm of Ellis & Mooney, legal stenographers. In 1912 he quit shorthand work and became associated with his son, Arthur R. Mooney, in the automobile business at 4547 Delmar boulevard. He is survived by his widow, Dora L. Mooney and two sons, Arthur R. and Ralph E. Mooney, a newspaper writer. Funeral services will be held at the home at 11 a. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Oak Hill Church Dedicated.
The new Oak Hill Presbyterian Church, Connecticut street and Oak Hill avenue, was dedicated yesterday. The edifice cost approximately $100,000, and has a seating capacity of about 300. The Rev. Frank H. Smith is pastor.

Straight Turkish Cigarettes are too rich for most men. They contain too much Turkish. On the other hand, nearly all "blends" seem to lack taste. They contain too little Turkish.

But such "facts" as Delmonico's, for example, show that in Fatima, men have found the "happy medium"—a blend with "just enough Turkish." Just enough to taste right and to leave a man feeling right even after smoking more heavily than usual.

The Browns' Winning Streak and 27,526 Hearts Were Broken at Sportman's Park

"Babe" Ruth Drives Ball Over Browns' Park Fence—in Practice

Eighth-Inning Rally by Burkenmen Threatens New York's Lead of Four Runs, but Final Count Is 4 to 3 for Visitors—Bodie Makes Homer With Ruth On.

ABILITY of the Browns' sluggers to hit Jack Quinn when hits meant runs caused the downfall of Jimmy Burke's clan in the opening game of the series with the New York Yankees yesterday, before a crowd officially announced at 27,526. The score was 4-3. It ended the Browns' winning streak of 10 in a row and shoved the Burkenmen back into sixth place, the Nationals winning and moving up a notch. The conquest put the Yankees only .011 behind the Cleveland Indians, who are in first place.

The Browns hit Quinn hard, but not until the eighth were they able to break through for tallies. Then the "luck of the game" aided the Phil Ball entry in tallying thrice.

Just how effective Quinn was with men on the bases can be determined by the following tabulation:

In six of the nine innings, the first man up for the Browns got on through hitting safely. In four of the rounds, the opening batter started with a double. In only one frame, the second, did Quinn retire the locals in order.

In the fifth and ninth, the second Brownie doubled, but did not get beyond the pivot station.

During the first four rounds, although the Browns were credited with four safeties, not a solid hit was made off Quinn.

Quinn Hard to Hit. Tobin, in the first, got a double on a hit too far out for Peck and too far in for Bodie; in the third, Severed's double fell just behind Pipp and rolled into the crowd. Sisler's single in the same round bounced off Quinn's shins. Williams' hit to start the fourth was a pop over third base. The hardest balls hit against Quinn in these rounds were drives by Tobin and Jacobson in the third, of which Ping Bodie made nice catches.

Three double plays in consecutive innings saved Quinn from probable trouble in the fifth, sixth and seventh. In the fifth, with one out, Tobin doubled to center, Gedeon sent a pop to short right, and his throw to Peck doubled Tobin.

Sisler Pulls a "Boner." The two-pitch killing in the sixth was mainly due to a bit of bad base running by George Sisler, the Browns' ace slugger. Sisler had punched a double against the right-field fence, with one out. Williams drove a high fly to center and Sisler, instead of watching the play, threw to Pratt killed George. In running back, Sisler crossed the diamond, and even had he beaten the ball, he would have been out.

Austin started the seventh with a single and was doubled with Gerber, when Ward made a great stop off Walter's grounder behind third.

Cardinal-Braves Game Called Off

Branch Rickey's Cardinals, whose upward dash was held up last week when the tail-end Phillies took three out of four games, will resume action tomorrow, opposing the Boston Braves in the first game of a series of four. Haines is due to hurt for St. Louis. Today's scheduled game was postponed because of rain. The Rickeymen are in fourth place, one percentage point out of third place, a half-game out of second and two and a half games behind the leading Cincinnati Reds.

After the series in Boston the Rickeymen will move to Cincinnati for the most crucial series of the trip. Six games will be played in Redland, including two postponed on the Cardinals' last visit there. After the Cincinnati series the Rickeymen will return to their home lot, opening against the Pirates. Before leaving their ballfield again, the Knot-Holers will oppose the Pirates, Cubs, Dodgers, Giants, Phillies and Braves, starting their second eastern jaunt July 25.

On their present trip thus far the Cardinals have won three out of four from Brooklyn, four in succession from New York and one of four at Philadelphia.

Denver Grandstand Burns. DENVER, Colo., June 21.—The grand stand at Broadway Park, former home of the Denver (Western League) baseball club, was destroyed by fire today.

SPEAKER OFFERS MORTON FOR HARPER, EVEN TRADE
BOSTON, June 21.—An offer to trade Guy Morton for Harry Harper, both pitchers, was made to the Boston Americans by Manager Speaker of the Cleveland club today. The Red Sox management announced the offer was taken under consideration.

The Boston club released outfielder Arnold Stutz, formerly of the New York Giants and Holy Cross College, to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League, and signed outfielder Gene Bailey, who was released unconditionally by the Boston Nationals Saturday.

SPORTS SALAD

Cause and Effect.
THERE was an old town called Detroit.
Where people were keen and adroit;
She grew and she grew Till she passed old St. Lou,
Which same was a nifty exploit.

Hy Ford and the great Tyrus Cobb To the city attracted a mob;
Ty captured the fans
While Henry's tin cans
Drew people in search of a job.

Ty Cobb is a wonderful chap.
To him we must take our cap;
But Sisler's the boy
Who will fill us with joy
And put us again on the map.

Simple Addition.
If St. Louis had kept the Burrows adding machine she might have had more population than Detroit.

It was those subtracting machines over in East St. Louis that knocked our eye out.
Still, while we have not gained as we would have liked in quantity, we have kept up the quality.

Fifty-Fifty.
Now the question is who had the most to do with the phenomenal increase in Detroit's population, Ty Cobb or Henry Ford?

At any rate it seems the City of Straits was not four-flushing in her growth.
However we look for the Cards to put us back on the map.

And the Browns are as far ahead of the Tigers as Detroit is ahead of St. Louis.

QUITE SO.
See where Herb Hoover has in-dorsed Harding for President. Herb must be in line for a Cabinet job. Probably Secretary of the Interior. He is a stomach specialist and short ration expert. Mr. Hoover is without a peer.

Mr. McAdoo declines to run for President as he says he hasn't the guts and he refuses to cede on his friends. He'd make an ideal candidate.

That's the trouble with most of our candidates. No sooner do they chuck their hat in the ring than they grab it out and start passing it around.

Our legislative halls are full of high class gentlemen who would be insulted if you slipped 'em a dollar to buy a meal, but will accept any sum from 10 cents up from anybody for campaign expenses.

The politician is the only guy who can get the public to finance him while he is out rustling up a job.

MURDER WILL OUT.
An alleged friend of Senator Harding has come out with a statement that the Republican candidate is a reformed coney player. Looks bad for Gam.

He may have been a coney player, but he didn't blow himself the way Lowden did.

However his case is not hopeless as long as they can't hang a ukulele on him.

It is proposed to limit the rates on taxi cabs. How about the sky?

27,526 CROWD SETS NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD FOR ST. LOUIS BALL PARKS

With the team in second division, the Browns attracted the largest attendance in the history of St. Louis baseball yesterday. Ten successive victories and the Ruth-Sisler rivalry were the pulling forces. The official count was 27,526, of which 26,491 were paid admissions.

An hour before the game was scheduled to start the grand stand was packed and the aisles had filled with standing fans; the pavilions were similarly congested; the bleachers were three-fourths filled and in front of both pavilions and the extremes of the grand stand lines several deep were seated on the grass.

At 3:15 o'clock, when the game was scheduled to start, the entire field was circled with standing spectators, while in front of the pavilions and grand-stand extremes the spectators had crowded out to the foul lines. Later they overran right field.

The police were helpless to cope with this section of the overflow, but in left field the "coppers," aided by Manager Burke and several players, forced the bulging salient of stanchions back from the foul line and roped it in.

Empire Connolly, emerging from the dugout, took one look at the field, rubbed his chin reflectively and then turned hurriedly to Gene Phil Ball's box and conversed with him. The result was apparent ten minutes later, when another section of the crowd on the field and in five minutes had forced the crowd away from the right-field foul line.

A two-base ground rule, which interfered with at least two St. Louis extra-base blows, was necessitated by the attendance.

MISTLE YIELDS 3 HITS AND BEATS BELLEVILLE
Mistle, pitching for Collinsville, allowed the Belleville B's only three hits, and won, 6-0, yesterday in the Missouri-Illinois Trolley League. In the other contests, the leading Wilkes-Chapmans nosed out the Ben Millers, 12-11; East St. Louis trounced Dupro, 17-7; and Tri-City won at the Maxwells, 5-4.

U. S. Champion Describes Links Over Which British Golf Tourney Will Be Played.

By Walter C. Hagen.
Open Golf Champion of the United States.

LONDON, June 21.—The course at Deal, where the British open championship will be played, was almost put out of commission by the war and had to be overhauled thoroughly before any sort of a tournament could be played there.

Six of the holes were ruined completely, as they were used for the more practical business of rifle shooting, having been commandeered by the military authorities, and no thought of using them for golfing purposes entered the heads of the troops quartered there.

So when the war ended, a complete reconstruction of the links was suggested. The holes put out of commission were the eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth. These, coming right in the heart of the links, made it almost as easy a proposition to build over as to reconstruct from what was left of the old greens and fairways, due to the huge tarpaulin covers stretched for their protection.

Wonderful Entry in Tourney.
The tournament, with its extraordinary international entry list, has aroused the greatest interest ever evinced in a British tennis championship. English newspapers and the regular daily and weekly sports publications are devoting columns to the draw.

The draw shows Johnston bracketed in the same section as J. C. Parke and Arthur Lowe, the English international, who are considerably older than Johnston. The American is expected to dispose of the veterans, in case the break of the play brings them in turn against him. R. Norris Williams is drawn close to William H. Laurentz, representing France. Laurentz is one of the strongest players in Europe, having recently defeated Andre Gobert, the French champion, and having victories to his credit over the late Anthony F. Wilding and prominent players of England and continental Europe. Laurentz is handicapped, however, by the fact that he lost an eye as the result of an accident in a match with A. H. Gobert.

Garland in Easter Bracket.
C. S. Garland of Pittsburgh is played well down in the lower half of the draw, which is considered the weaker section, although it contains among other players Charles Winslow, South African internationalist, and Mac Deuguis, the third member of the French trio of tennis experts.

Garland's draw is to start the English player, O. G. N. Turnbull, opened strong against Garland, who, as last week at the Queen's Club, showed he has a slow starter. Turnbull captured the first three games, but Garland scored the fourth, which was his only break away from Deal. These two wonderful links, the best England has, are as easy as the extremes of the links, and although difficult in make-up and design have much the same general character.

Deal, which is with the hole side by side, and although difficult in make-up and design have much the same general character.

The second set proved Turnbull's best. He lost the next two sets and the match, Garland winning 7-5, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, the American star, won his first match in the present tournament this afternoon, defeating P. Russell, a middle class English player, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Miss Gould Faces Strong Opposition
DETROIT, Mich., June 21.—Entries for the women's national clay court tennis championship tournament, which starts here this afternoon, gave promise of an unusually fast fight. Miss Catherine Gould of St. Louis will have to defend her title, won at Chicago last year, against some of the East's best players.

Miss Marion Zinderstein of Boston, who was runner-up in the women's national singles last year, and Miss Mrs. G. H. Wightman, the women's doubles champion, are other well known players who are entered.

Miss Edith Sigourney and Mrs. Frank Godfrey of Boston, Miss Florence Ballin and Miss Helene Pollock of New York, and Mrs. C. B. Neely of Chicago, are other well known players who are entered.

WESTERN JUNIOR BARGE WINS GIESSEW CUP RACE
The Western Rowing Club's junior barge crew nosed out the No. 1 sextet of the Century Boat Club in the annual Giessew cup race at the Century Club yesterday afternoon. The Century's second crew took third place.

The Century oarsmen were leading until the last quarter mile of the event, when the Westerns pulled up even. During the last few strokes of the grind the blue and white boat forced ahead and won by inches.

Next Sunday barge crews of the local harbor will compete in the Giessew trophy race at the Century Club. This will be the last rowing event, locally held, in the Central States regatta in Chicago, July 8 and 9.

Johnston and Garland Outclass Foes in Wimbledon Tennis Play Today.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 21.—William M. Johnston of San Francisco, the United States singles champion, the first of the Americans to compete in the British lawn tennis championships, scored an easy victory over J. M. Flavell, a well-known English veteran player, with no match for his powerful stroking opponent, and the result was easily forecast before the match began.

R. Norris Williams II of Boston, United States champion in 1914 and 1916, also won his initial match, defeating N. Field, an English provincial player of some reputation, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

The tournament, which has attracted 128 entrants, including the leading players of America, Australia, South Africa, England and continental Europe, was started after 15 hours of steady rain. The grand stand courts were in perfect condition, however, due to the huge tarpaulin covers stretched for their protection.

Bockenkamp and Manion to Enter National Tourney

Midland Valley Golfers Also Will Compete in Western Amateur Championships.

St. Louis is certain to have at least two of its leading golfers compete in the important amateur tournaments to be held this summer. James Manion, city champion, and Richard Bockenkamp, St. Louis district champion, will represent the Midland Valley Country Club in the national and western amateur championships.

The Western Golf Association's competition is scheduled for July 12-17 at the Memphis (Tenn.) Country Club, while the national title aspirants will assemble at the Englewood Club, New York City, Sept. 6 to 11. It is probable that a number of other St. Louisans will play at Memphis next month.

Bank Figures Have Little Influence on the Trading in Wall Street.

LIBERTY BOND QUOTATIONS.

By Leased Wire From the New York

Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Today's stock market might have been expected to reflect either the deficit in reserve at the New York associated bank, which was announced after the closing of the Stock Exchange on Saturday, or the improvement in reserve ratio shown by the weekly Federal reserve report. Perhaps the two statements counter-balance one another in the eyes of Wall Street, for at least

there was no movement of any consequence on the stock market. The money market responded by an afternoon rise in the call money rate to 11 per cent, the highest since June

1919. But stocks merely advanced a point or two in the more speculative issues during the forenoon, then fell back again in the later hours. As a whole, trading was again small.

Recovery in Exchange.

"Another sharp recovery in Sterling exchange brought today's rate to 3.58%, the top rate reached last

Thursday and higher than any rate quoted since the end of April. This quotation is 6 cents in the pound sterling below the highest of the year to date, but 80 cents above the lowest rate of the year. The European continental markets also advanced, though less rapidly and there was quotable improvement in nearly

PRICE MOVEMENTS

NARROW ON CURB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Some improvement in business took place on the curb market today, but price movements were again comparatively narrow. Several houses reported an increase in the outside demand and insiders were moderate buyers.

Wright-Martin was one of the features of the market. General Asphalt, under moderate selling, dropped nearly 2 points; but rallied later.

United States Steamship fluctuated over a narrow range. Imperial Tobacco of Great Britain and Ireland placed upon the market of gold which England will send over during the course of the summer.

The combined statement of Reserve Bank changes covering the period of last week made the strongest showing of any report in the last month.

The reserve ratio rose from 43 to above 44 per cent, this despite a decline in the stock to 139, while on the subsequent rise several thousand shares have been sold. Moreover, sufficient to prove that the purchases since last Friday could have been made without the aid of the interest put out when the Northwestern dividend was reduced.

The Equipment Stocks.

The continued shortage of essential materials is the primary difficulty with which the equipment companies

as a group are now obliged to continue, according to Hayden, Stone &

VAN VALKENBURGH'S FULL HOUR

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

EVERYTHING about the girl breathed an atmosphere of wealth and luxury. Her gown was a wonderful thing, shimmering, iridescent. Around her neck was a necklace of pearls, small but perfect. On the third finger of the small, bare, helpless, white hand was an emerald and diamond ring that, sold, would have supported the owner for a year. Yet the girl who wore these things had no money and she was starving. The renewed realization of that grim fact cut sharply across her consciousness. When would that chump Tom bring the hot soup?

He brought it at once. Indeed, he was offering it now, and Van Valkenburgh resolutely resumed command of the situation.

"Here, give me the sherry," he directed. As he spoke the eyes of the girl opened and rested on him. He caught his breath. They were wonderful eyes—deep brown pools, with the sunlight in them. Taking the glass, he held it to her lips. She swallowed a few drops, then shook her head.

"Now the soup," he translated, and, sitting on the arm of the big chair, he fed her spoonful after spoonful, as if she were a child.

Under the combined influence of the food and warmth the color began to come back into her face. She tried to speak, but he shook his head at her.

"Don't talk," he said. "You're all right. I brought you to Mack's, the place I spoke of. Mrs. Mack is in bed with influenza, but her son here will see that you are made comfortable for the night, and in the morning we'll get a nurse to look after you. I'm afraid you've caught cold."

The brown eyes looking into his filled suddenly and dropped, but the girl did not speak. He found an inexplicable comfort in the change in her expression. She had lost her look of panic. Spoonful by spoonful, much as an obedient baby might have done it, she drank all the soup.

"She oughtn't to eat much more tonight," young Mack suggested. "I've ordered some cream toast and a chop. She can have them. By morning she'll be all right and ready for a real breakfast."

Both his hearers accepted his medical understanding of the situation. The girl spoke for the first time.

"Thank you," she said. "You are very kind." Van Valkenburgh nodded. The toast and chop were brought in by a waiter, whose manner intimated that he was used to all sorts of goings on, and that it would take more than the scene before him to hold his interest. Van Valkenburgh cut the chop into small bits and she swallowed them as she had swallowed the soup, her eyes, with their new look of trust—yes, that was it, trust—returning once to his face.

Under the combined influence of his ministrations, her helplessness and her trust in him, an odd change took place in Van Valkenburgh. Up till now his principal emotions had been surprise and compassion. He had expected to see that the girl was made comfortable, and then, till morning at least, to drop her from his mind. But now an added instinct stirred in him, an instinct of protection, new born and poignant. It was that look in her eyes which had given it birth. He understood the look perfectly. It was precisely the look a lost and frightened child of 2 or 3 might turn on its rescuer.

Well, for some reason, she was a lost and frightened child. Perhaps she had fled from some danger—real or fancied. All sorts of surmises crossed his mind, each leading, however, to the highway of one broad conclusion. He would not leave Mack's that night. When she was taken up to her room he would doze till morning in the big chair that now held her. Thus he would be near; he would know she was all right.

It was at this point in his reflections that he suddenly became conscious of a new presence in the room. All three members of the little group had their backs to the door, and all three started sharply when a loud voice from the threshold addressed them.

"Well, gents," it said, "I guess you'll have to explain what this means."

The speaker was a big, square-faced, keen-eyed man, with a clear held at a sharp angle in a corner of his mouth and his hands in his pockets. He gazed at them, not truculently, but with a look of almost tolerant understanding, as one who held the winning cards in the game. Van Valkenburgh's eyes flashed from the newcomer to the girl. Her expression showed neither fear nor recognition of the stranger, but merely an extreme surprise. There was also, he observed, a certain hauteur in it—the astonished hauteur of one not accustomed to abrupt intrusions.

"Do you know this man?" he asked, quietly.

Her answer was quiet. "I never saw him before."

The man in the doorway laughed, not sardonically, but with his odd air of tolerant understanding.

"That's all right," he said, "but you're seeing me now, miss, so get ready, please, and we'll get out of here."

Van Valkenburgh, still watching the girl, saw her shrink back in her chair.

"No!" she cried. "No, no!" He laid his hands on hers.

"Don't be frightened," he said. "You're not going to leave if you don't want to; be sure of that."

The tolerant air of the man in the door gave place to a look of determination. He shouldered his way into the room with a sudden assumption of cool but absolute authority and placed himself between Van Valkenburgh and the girl.

"Now, see here, my young friend," he said. "I've been tryin' to let you down nice an' easy. See? Because I ain't sure but what you're on the level. See? But I'm goin' to take this lady away from here—an' if I have any trouble doin' it, things is goin' to be mighty unpleasant for you. See?"

"Whoever you are," said Van Valkenburgh, "don't act like an ass. Don't start any trouble in the presence of this lady."

The man stopped abruptly in his advance.

"That's right," he muttered. "I'll tend to you later." He added the last words with meaning

"Well, gents, I guess you'll have to explain what this means!"

and turned to the girl, who was still cowering against the back of her chair, as if to get as far away from him as she could.

"Come along, miss," he said, not unkindly. "She threw out both hands, as if to ward him off."

"No!" she cried again. "No, no! I don't know you. I never saw you before." She appealed to Van Valkenburgh, who was watching her closely. "I'm afraid of him!" she cried. "Don't let him take me away!"

Van Valkenburgh smiled at her. It was the first time he had done so, and she seemed to find the smile wonderfully reassuring. Her eyes, still clinging to his face, suddenly brightened, took on their look of brown pools in the sun. The ghost of a smile twitched the corners of her lips.

"He shall not take you away," Van Valkenburgh comfortingly repeated. "But he may tell us, if he

ant. Doubtless he owed the man an apology. With a gesture he motioned him from the room and followed him into the hall.

"Look here," he said, rather awkwardly, when they were out of earshot. "I think I'm beginning to understand."

The other nodded.

"I'm glad of that."

"I suppose," Van Valkenburgh reflected aloud, "we'll have to take her back."

"I will that," the other agreed.

"I said 'we,'" Van Valkenburgh corrected firmly. "Please understand once and for all that I will not let the lady out of my sight for one minute, until she is safe."

He felt like a traitor as he spoke. Free for a few hours, she had appealed to him. She had come to regard him as her friend, and now he was to return her to—what? His mind and emotions were in a whirl of confusion and sympathy, shot through with personal pangs whose intensity amazed him.

"Do you suppose we'll have a bad time getting her back?" he asked, wretchedly.

His companion gave the question a moment's thought.

"I dunno how she'll act," he said at last. "You see, I've never set eyes on her before."

Van Valkenburgh drew back and stared at him.

"You've never seen her?" he repeated, slowly. "What the devil do you mean?"

"What I say," the other patiently reiterated. "I've never set eyes on her—but I'm pretty sure she's the one I'm after," he added firmly. "There can't hardly be two of them."

For a second the earth slipped from under Van Valkenburgh's feet. Then he had been wrong in his theory—all wrong. O, thank God for that! His enlightenment deepened the general mystery, but left him inexplicably, dizzily happy. Through his rapture of relief he realized that his companion was still speaking, and now he caught the final words.

"So, of course, I can't be dead sure this is the one. I'd been watchin' her an' I was just goin' to take her in when she spoke to you. So I waited to see what'd happen. Now we'll run her over to the station an' see what the Sergeant says!"

"We will, will we?"

Van Valkenburgh uttered the words between his set teeth. For a moment he hardly saw the stolid figure before him, he was so blinded by the primitive rage that thirsted for the blood of this blundering fool of a "plain-clothes man" who was on the scent of some quarry, and who was perfectly capable of running in his—Van Valkenburgh's—protégé, simply because she was unlabeled.

"I watched you two till you brought her here," went on the satisfied voice of his companion. "I felt sure you didn't know her, so I followed the two of you, and when I seen her in the light I thought she answered the description."

What more the plain-clothes man thought was never revealed. In that instant Van Valkenburgh had him by the throat. In the next he had forced the fiercely fighting figure into a small private dining room off the hall, had choked it pretty thoroughly, had hurled it headlong against the room's most distant wall, had closed and locked the door from the outside, had pocketed the key, and was quickly walking back into the waiting room, very short of breath, but extremely well satisfied.

"I had to lock up that ass," he briefly explained to young Mack.

Mack nodded. "I don't like his looks m'self," he agreed, simply.

"Telephone for a taxi quick. Tell them to rush it. As soon as it comes I'll get the lady away from here, and after we've had a fair start you can release that fool."

"His name's Casey. What was he tryin' to do?" asked Tom.

"Arrest her, on the general chance that just possibly she was someone he was looking for."

"Praps she is," Mack suggested.

"Possibly," Van Valkenburgh admitted. "But they've got to prove it before they get her, not afterwards. See here," he broke out, "are you going to stand by us, or aren't you?"

"I am," Tom confessed. "I don't like his looks," he repeated, "and I do like the lady's."

For this sufficient reason he sent an urgent order over the telephone, which, however, Van Valkenburgh missed, owing to the increased activities of Casey, who was now battering the door and bellowing forth alternate appeals and threats.

Van Valkenburgh discovered that during his brief absence his protégé had again put on her now dry slippers.

"That's good," he commented approvingly, picking up the mackintosh and holding it for her to slip into. "We're going to leave this place."

She got up at once. The wonderful brown pools of her eyes met his inquiringly, but still with entire trust.

"Just you and I?" she asked, uncertainly. "Just you and I."

She drew a deep breath and buttoned the garment with uncertain fingers. Then, turning abruptly to face him, she exclaimed, "While you were gone I almost got it!"

"Got it?" Got what?

"It almost came!" She was greatly excited. Her beautiful face was illuminated as if by an inner light, which, however, died out as suddenly as it had come. "I almost had it—and then it went," she ended in an odd, flat tone.

"Cab's here," Tom reported, appearing on the threshold. "Better get a move on," he added urgently. "That chump's tryin' to break down the door. Good-night, miss," he added, formally.

She gave him her hand. "Good-night," she said, "and thank you. You have been very kind." For an instant she left the hand in his big one, and Mack stared down at it as if it were a treasure given him to study.

"I'll hold that chump long as I can," he said at last, and, so to speak, gave the hand back to her.

Van Valkenburgh hurried her out on the street and into the waiting taxi.

Dr. Hibben Warns Mothers Against Slipshod Manner of Rearing Daughters.

Fears for Future of Race.

Modern Gowns and Dances and Flippancy in Wake of War Alarms Princeton Head.

By MARGUERITE DEAN.

WHEN American mothers send their daughters half dressed to evening functions anything may happen. I would not like to be so ungalant as to put all the blame on the women, but young men are only human, and while they share in the responsibility for modern laxity, it has its beginning in the dress of today," declared President John G. Hibben of Princeton, when I talked with him at Princeton the other day, about the somewhat startling picture of modern society which he painted for Princeton men in his 1929 baccalaureate address.

"In our social relations," warned Dr. Hibben, "we are weakly allowing ourselves to be ruled by the whims of folly, slaves in her domain to the fashion of the hour. The modern dress, the modern dance, the modern music and modern manners of today are symptoms that indicate that somewhere in this age we have lost our bearings, and that the old values of life once so highly prized, have been forgotten."

"There is the danger of a lessening of the old-time reverence for womanhood. There is no longer an aura of mystery about the young woman of today, a mystery at once her defense and her glory; and whenever in the history of the race this divine prerogative of womanhood is lightly regarded or recklessly scorned, it has always proved a symptom of decadence far reaching and disastrous."

"Every age of moral and spiritual progress in the history of any people has always been an age of chivalry, in which womanhood has been not only respected but revered. Today our illusions seem to be gone; everything is obvious; no word is left unsaid and no veil drawn."

"Just what do you think is wrong with the dress, dance, music and manners of today?" I asked slender, erect, poised, courteous Dr. Hibben, when we had succeeded in fitting an interview into an interstice of his busy commencement week.

"All four are symptoms of a great restlessness—a moral laxity, a period of decadence," he replied, with quiet emphasis, in referring to them I chose my words most carefully, since I did not wish to be sensational and not desired to point out what I considered a very real danger.

"The dress to which I refer is, of course, the immodest dress worn by many women of today."

made inevitable by woman's entrance into business and public affairs? And are you opposed to these interests of the modern woman?"

"I am not referring," Dr. Hibben said quickly, "to the responsible self-supporting woman who is holding her own so splendidly in the business or professional world. Nobody has a more profound respect for her than I."

"The type I have in mind, who has lost the mystery which was at once her defense and her glory, is the young girl at home, the daughter who has not even been trained for self-support, or for anything else—the society butterfly placed upon her, that she will meet them adequately. I hope she will. But suppose there are many of her who do not change? If she falls in her wifehood and motherhood, the decadence of the American home may be traced to her."

"In what she wears, in the subjects she discusses with men, in the very language she uses, there is no reserve, there is no illusion. And I believe in illusions, especially about young girls; there should be around them something of the glamour, of romance. I want to see the modern girl recapture these things. Their disappearance seems to me a part of the general lowering of standards indicated by our dress, dances and divorces."

"Yet are we not more strict than ever, in some ways?" I suggested. "Winston Churchill calls us 'pious America,' and we have prohibition." "I don't think Winston Churchill has seen us for some time," smiled President Hibben. "As for prohibition, one of the first signs of a decadent society is that it tries to make itself moral by law instead of by the force of a healthy and vigorous public opinion."

"You were quoted as advocating a return to the ideals of the Pilgrim fathers. Do you really want us to imitate them today?" I asked finally.

"I only said we might accept somewhat of the austerity of their manner," replied Dr. Hibben. "Our present selfishness, extravagance and recklessness may be due in no small measure to our reaction from the war. But having admitted that there is no reason why we should not fight against it and strive to raise the tone of our society. I do not mean we should abolish dancing or anything like that. I am not an extremist. But I should like," finished President Hibben, with his kind, wise and patient smile, "to see a little decency. It is getting hard to find."

Longfoot's Home and Ways.

You cannot know a person 'til you've seen his home and learned his ways. To judge one just from meeting him is most unfair and never pays. —Old Mother Nature.

"WHERE do Longfoot and his Kangaroo Rat and his cousins live?" asked Johnny Chuck.

"In the dry, sandy parts of the Southwest, places so dry that rain seldom falls and water is to be found only long distances apart," replied Old Mother Nature.

"Then how does Longfoot get water to drink?" demanded Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

"That is a fair question," Chatterer, laughed Old Mother Nature. "I don't wonder you asked it. Longfoot gets along without drinking. Strange as it may seem, he doesn't need water. Such moisture as he needs he gets from his food. He doesn't need much. If he did he couldn't live out in that dry country. And if he didn't live there that country would be more dreary than it now is."

"I don't see how he gets anything to eat out there," remarks Johnny Chuck.

"Oh, there are plants that grow even in that dry country," explained Old Mother Nature. "Longfoot eats the seeds and leaves of these and the tender young plants just coming up. It does rain once in a while, usually just enough to keep those plants alive. If there happens to be such a long period without rain that the plants wither and die, Longfoot has a hard time and some of his family starve to death."

"Does he make his home in the ground?" asked Johnny Chuck.

"You've guessed it," replied Old Mother Nature. "He is a digger, just as you are, only more so. He isn't satisfied to just dig a hole and then do nothing but eat, as you are."

"We do! Indeed we do," cried Peter Rabbit and Jumper the Hare and Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel and Striped Chipmunk and Johnny Chuck as one.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By Helen Rowland.

SOMEHOW, it's awfully hard for a man to watch his wife curling her hair and powdering her back—and, at the same time, to think of her as a "citizen."

It isn't so much love of the woman as of a fight that inspires a man to battle for the heart of a girl who doesn't love him, rather than to marry one who does, and be happy.

Love doesn't fly out of the window when poverty comes in at the door, but when MONEY comes in at the door—especially if it's the wife's money.

No man ever doubted that he could tame a "man-tamer," once he married her—and no woman ever doubted that she could break a "heart-breaker," once she landed him.

Somehow the only comfort a woman gets out of married life is the consoling thought that she isn't a spinster.

A man is never happy in a love affair—because the moment he thinks he has a woman "just where he wants her," he begins to wonder if he wants her there.

A woman will forgive a man more readily for being seen at a prize fight with another man, than for being seen at a prayer meeting with another woman. Well, I should SAY so!

Nowadays, a hero is a man who dares to admit that he is not having a gay and delightful time while his wife is away in the country.

Yes, Charming, always try to be the "guiding star" of a man's life, but never deceive yourself by fancying that you are the whole solar system.

Revival of Black Jewelry

JEWEL ornaments are being shown in great profusion. Novel necklaces are prominent. The jet bracelets set with glistening white gems are decidedly effective. Then there are all sorts of jet pins and ornaments for hats and dresses. The butterflies, birds and various bow knots are especially attractive. Any of these would make acceptable gifts, especially to the woman wearing mourning.

It is only on rare occasions that a woman attends a funeral in Mexico.

A TALE OF TWO LAWYERS.

I know of an erudite lawyer,
Conversant with all the reports.
He retains in his head all that Blackstone has said,
On pleading and answers and torts;
He reads off judicial opinions
From Marshall's to Chief Justice White's, Injunctions, restraints and amended complaints,
He says are his greatest delights,
But though he quotes OBITER DICTA,
And knows, furthermore, what they mean,
And though he has stowed every word of the Code
In the depths of his marvelous brain,
At sessions, or even at police courts,
You never will see him appear.
They keep him at work as a salaried clerk,
At sixpence hundred a year.

I know of another attorney
Whose knowledge of law is so slight,
That his colleagues can't see how he got his degree,
Unless with a black-jack, by night.
But he blusters and shouts at a jury,
Spouts language all over the place,
And the Court room is filled and the public is thrilled,
Whenever he's trying a case.

His clothes are the latest and loudest,
His fees are the highest there are;
And the people agree as a unit that he Is the brightest young man at the bar.
This tale is the truth, not a fable
And therefore no moral I'll draw
But I trust you observe that an iron-clad nerve
Is an excellent thing in the law.
